Oct 25-30s Application for Decree to Sell Land.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

In Probate Court, for said County, Special Term, Sept. 15th 1850.

This day came Mrs. Millie A. Pickett, joint owner owner and tenant in common with F. I. Hannah Emma E. Hannah, and filed in Court her application praying for a decree to sell certain lands in said petition described for partition and sale among the joint owners upon the grounds that the same cannot be equitably divided without a sale.

It is therefore ordered that the 16th day of October 1850 be and is hereby appointed the day on which to hear and determine said application, and notice is hereby given to all persons interested to appear in said court and contest said application if they think proper.

EMMETT F. CROOK,
Judge of Probate.

Sept 27-30s Application for Decree to Sell Land.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

In Probate Court, for said County, Special Term, Sept. 15th 1850.

This day came A. McCollister, agent for the heirs at law of the estate of Jacob F. Dailey deceased, and filed in Court his account and vouchers for a final settlement of the administration of J. F. Dailey, who at the time of his death was administrator of estate of Chas. Damblanc, deceased.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the 15th day of November 1850 be and is hereby appointed the day upon which to audit and pass upon said account and make said settlement; and that notice thereof be given for three successive weeks in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county, to all persons concerned, to be and appear before me, at my office in the Court House of said county, on said 17th day of November 1850 to make said settlement if they think proper.

EMMETT F. CROOK,
Judge of Probate.

For Congress.

WILLIAM H. FORNEY,

Of Calhoun County.

Go to the polls.

Are you one of the men who are going to try to distance the old war horse with the stump sucker?

The Alliance man who casts a vote for Butler because he is an Alliance man will strike the order the cruellest blow in can give it.

Give your vote to the old "War horse" and thus rebuke the shameless men who are crying "war horses to the rear."

Col. Denison was to have addressed the voters of Calhoun at the Court house Wednesday; but was unexpectedly called to Gadsden on business.

Do you belong to the gang who want to see the old war horses sent to the rear? Ask your boy who has read the history of the Confederate struggle what he thinks of a man who entertains such views.

Some of Gen. Forney's friends estimate the General's majority at 6,000. It will be more than that if no Democrat in the district shall disown himself by failing to vote.—Gadsden Times.

Who moved the nomination of Gen. Forney by acclamation? The president of the St. Clair county alliance. The alliance men will give a satisfactory vote on election day.—Gadsden Times.

Dr. Melville Jackson, of Grace church, Richmond, Va., was elected assistant Bishop of the Episcopal church by the Diocesan Council recently in session at Selma. He is about forty years of age, a fine preacher and a hard worker.

Show by your vote that you prefer a "war horse," who bears the Democratic banner, to a stump sucker, who carries the Independent flag and courts negro votes by traducing the white men of this District in his demand for "justice" to the negro.

The Alabama Confederate Veterans' Association which met this week in Birmingham recommended that the next Legislature pass an act to give a monthly pension to indigent and maimed Confederate soldiers and that a special tax be levied for this purpose. The Legislature will no doubt follow the recommendation.

Tom Woolfolk, the murderer of his father's entire family in Georgia some two years ago and whose case has attracted wide attention, was hanged at Perry, Georgia, the 29th inst. He made no talk but had a short paper read by one of the ministers who attended him, in which he declared most solemnly that he was not guilty of the crime and had no knowledge of who did it.

Butler denies in the Gadsden Times that he is for negro equality; but he does not attempt to explain the meaning of his seventh plank. He cannot. It is susceptible of no meaning but that the papers have put upon it. He cannot avoid the conclusion that his language means that or nothing. If he says it means nothing, then he confesses himself a knave who throws out a false bait to catch negro votes. How can white men afford to vote for such a man?

Some papers, unfriendly to the Democratic party, are publishing that Democrats in Congress voted for the infamous McKinley tariff bill that has so raised prices on all the goods the people have to buy. This is a falsehood. The Democrats in Congress voted solidly against it, and even two or three Republicans went over to the Democrats and voted with them against it. It is purely a Republican measure. The Democrats in Congress have been fighting all along for a lower rate of taxation. President Cleveland specially recommended the Mills bill which provided for it. The Democrats in Congress are for more money in circulation and lower taxes on the people.

There are grave fears that Logan, the negro Republican candidate, will carry Talladega county. Tidings is a close county, politically, and if any number of Democrats throw away their votes on Butler, Logan may carry that county. Thus it can be seen how a vote for an independent Democrat gives aid and comfort to a Republican candidate. In effect a vote for Butler is a half vote for Logan, for it increases Logan's chances just to that extent. Every vote taken off the Democratic nominee strengthens the chances of the Negro candidate. White men cannot escape the conclusion of this logic. If you can't vote for a negro, but want to give him all the aid and comfort you can, then vote for Butler. If you want the Democratic party to win, then vote for Forney, who is its standard bearer.

When the Calhoun County Democratic Convention met no opportunity was developed to Gen. Forney, and a majority of the delegates to that convention were true and tried Alliancemen.

In the committee room, Mr. Greer, county lecturer for the Alliance, announced that the Alliance people were willing to have such a delegation sent to the District Convention as Gen. Forney's friends desired. The editor of this paper was there. He presented a list of delegations to the committee, which he stated frankly the friends of Gen. Forney wanted sent to Gadsden, because they were influential for good in his cause. There was only one change suggested, and that was suggested by Commissioner Mace Coker, an Allianceman, who said that the delegate he proposed to substitute was a Forney man. Other influential Alliancemen were on that committee and all acquiesced readily, and the report of the committee was unanimous, and the convention adopted it without objection. The convention went further. It not only appointed good Forney men to the Gadsden convention, but instructed them to work for his nomination. In the Gadsden convention the President of the St. Clair county Alliance nominated Gen. Forney for Congress. How comes it now that rumors abound that Alliancemen here and there will not support Gen. Forney? When they controlled the Calhoun county convention was the time to fight him, if the Alliance had any right to make on him. Why instruct their delegates to Gadsden to nominate him, if they intended afterwards to vote against him? The position of the alliancemen who vote against Gen. Forney will be inconsistent and ridiculous, and will serve to bring the order into contempt, as not knowing its own mind when it meets in a convention itself controls. We do not believe any considerable number of alliancemen will be so foolish as to oppose a nomination they themselves made, so far as this county is concerned. He was nominated before the District Convention by a prominent allianceman. He was supported by delegates from Calhoun and other counties sent to the District Convention by Democratic alliancemen. He is practically a nominee of both the Democrats and alliancemen. Then why should any allianceman desert the Democratic party ranks in order to record a vote against him? We believe few will be so foolish. We believe that the result of the election will show that the great body of alliancemen in this county mean always to stand by the Democratic party and its nominees. A few foolish men may go off from the party and its old war horse in this county on the back of a stump sucker. The party will doubtless get rid of a bad incumbrance when they do go; but the mass of the people of Calhoun will show that they are still true to Democracy and white supremacy and that they are not yet and never will be ready to join in a crusade to defeat and humiliate any old war horse. They will leave that task to bloody-shirt Radicals in the North and political cranks in the South.

The REPUBLICAN has a considerable circulation in the Seventh Congressional District of Georgia. When Dr. Felton came out as an independent candidate for Congress against Mr. Everett, a farmer and Allianceman, who had fairly secured the Democratic nomination, the REPUBLICAN took the side of Mr. Everett. Some of our subscribers in that district did not like the attitude of the paper; but we could have taken no other position with consistency. We believe in standing by the nominees of the Democratic party as essential to the life of that party and the rule of the white man in the South. For the same reason we have deplored the candidacy of Judge Haskill in South Carolina against Tillman, the Allianceman who secured the Democratic nomination for Governor. There will be no surprise in this district if Democrats do their duty and support Forney, the nominee of their party.

The same convention that nominated Mr. Cooper for the Legislature sent delegates to the Gadsden Convention that nominated Gen. Forney for Congress.

In the State election Jacksonville, (Gen. Forney's town) gave Mr. Cooper every Democratic vote polled. In fact Mr. Cooper ran two votes ahead of a popular minister who lived in Jacksonville and who was also nominated for office by the same Convention. So far as Jacksonville is concerned she stood loyally by the nominations of that Convention, although it is known the voters here preferred to see Mr. Brothers nominated for Representative. They didn't get their choice; but they stood to the rack, and they think they have a right to ask that the people of the county who favored the nomination of Mr. Cooper shall now stand by Gen. Forney as Mr. Cooper himself is doing. This is fair. If you require other men to stand by the nominations that please you, you should be man enough to stand by nominations that please them. Otherwise there can be no harmony, and a division of the white people will follow. Division of the white people in Alabama means negro rule. No one of us wants that. Abide the action of your party, whether you like it or not, and correct errors at the next convention. This government is not for a year but for all time, let us hope. There will be ample opportunity in future elections to make your wishes known. An abandonment of your party is a poor way to correct it.

Let us settle our differences inside the party.

The Chairman of the Talladega County Democratic Executive Committee, in an address to the voters of that county, charges that Butler is the secret candidate of the Radical party and that his tickets were printed in Montgomery by the Republican State Executive Committee and that Bob Mosesley distributed his tickets in the District.

Stand by your party, and vote for Gen. Forney.

BEGINNING TO CROW.

What the Negro Paper at Anniston Is Saying.

The Vindicator, the negro paper established at Anniston to advocate the election of Logan to Congress, has this to say on the canvas:

"Our candidate's reception in Cherokee, DeKalb, Marshall, Etowah and St. Clair was all we expected. The organization of the party goes bravely on, you bet. Look for us two years hence at the National Convention."

"Look out for surprises in the second, seventh, and eighth districts in this State. Herbert Forney, and Wheeler are walking on treacherous grounds."

"Yes, and there has been stranger things happen in this country than the election of Logan to Congress. On the morning after the election when we shall read the returns from the several counties composing this district the greatest surprise will be Jack Logan's vote. Don't you derive great pleasure about Logan, he has friends and votes in every county of the district and it will be one of the happiest moments of our life to deposit a pure, untaunted Republican ballot for him on the morning of the election."

There will be no surprise in this district if Democrats do their duty and support Forney, the nominee of their party.

LOCAL.

Mrs. Annie Draper visited Jacksonville this week and was the guest of Mrs. H. L. Stevenson.

Obituary notice of Maj. T. W. Francis in office and will appear next week.

Circuit court has been in session this week, Judge Rox presiding. The attendance is about as usual.

Messrs. Crusee & McPherson, of Piedmont, were down Thursday on business in the courts.

The machinery for the Tredegar Brick & Tile Company has been received and is now being put in place.

Messrs. Privett & Field will put up a corrugated iron real estate office on the public square. Mr. Hubbell will put up one near the depot on Woodward street.

Ex-Sheriff Jack Williams, of Peeks Hill, has bought a house and lot from Gen. Jno. H. Forney, on Depot Street, and will move here to educate his children.

Excavations are being made for two brick stores on Francis Avenue. Brick laying on same will commence as soon as the Tredegar Brick & Tile Co. burn their first kiln.

Mr. Jno. Patterson, the champion cabbage ricer of Calhoun has laid the REPUBLICAN office under obligation for a cabbage white as snow and something smaller than a half bushel measure.

Mrs. Walker Reynolds, of Talladega county, died at her home one day this week. She was the mother of Mrs. James Crook and often visited Jacksonville where she was well known and greatly esteemed.

Dispatches received here Thursday from Mr. Alexander, chief engineer of construction on the steel plant, announce that he and the contractors on the plant will be here the early part of next week.

Maj. G. B. West, General Manager of the Jacksonville Mining & Manufacturing Co., who has been for some weeks in Boston, is expected here the last of this week.

All the rooms on the first and second floors of the Tredegar Inn have been taken for the Winter, dating from the 15th of this month, by gentlemen of the East and North, who expect to spend the winter here.

Divine service may be expected in the Episcopal church Sunday, Nov. 2nd, at 11 a. m. The Holy communion will be administered. The public are cordially invited.

W. T. ALLEN.

Messrs. Frank Burke, Jno. Forney and Alexander Gibson have all been honored at the University this session in the appointment to important positions. The boys of Jacksonville always will be heard from wherever they go.

Mr. Jimmie Dothard, died at the home of his brother, Mr. Hugh Dothard, five miles south of Jacksonville, some days ago of malarial fever. He moved to this country from Ireland January 1st of this year. He leaves a family of a wife and seven children.

The movement in real estate here has continued with unabated activity. Several large sales have been made at an advance on the prices of the week before. Gentlemen from all parts of the country continue to come in and make quiet investments and much money is being invested here by local real estate men for people abroad.

With arrival of the contractors on the steel plant next week there will be greater activity in real estate than has yet been shown, although the transactions up to date have exceeded in magnitude anything our people ever hoped to see. We advise conservatism both in buying and selling. Be content with a moderate profit and keep prices within reason.

Subscribers to the REPUBLICAN are paying up more slowly this season than at this time in any previous year that we remember. This ought not to be so. People are selling their cotton and getting money and we expect them to call at this office and settle while they are in funds. In a few days the editor will be absent in Montgomery, engaged in the service of the public. Many heretofore have made his absence an excuse for not paying their subscriptions. This is no excuse at all. There is a gentleman in the office who is authorized to receive and receipt for sums due the office. Pay up for your paper and you can read it with a more comfortable feeling. If you do not know how much you owe, write to the office and find out.

Death of Mrs. Kimbrell.
Mrs. Mattie A. Kimbrell, wife of Thos. H. Kimbrell, died at her home about three miles from Jacksonville, Monday last, after a very brief illness. She was in apparently good health the day before her death. She leaves husband and two children to mourn her loss. She was a good Christian woman, who had many friends who will sorrow over her untimely death.

We direct attention to the advertisement of Joe A. Magnus & Co., of Anniston. Mr. Magnus has been visiting Jacksonville the past ten years and is well known to our people. He is a fine business man with an excellent record for fair dealing. Whenever Joe Magnus recommends an article he has for sale as pure or good, the buyer may bank on it. The stock of the firm at Anniston is said to be the largest and finest ever brought into this State.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's IRON BITTERS Relieves the System, removes excess bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children who want building up? Take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Pills Won't Cure Dyspepsia.

Dyspeptics are ever hopeless. They seek relief from their distress of stomach and of liver, and find it not. Indigestion, heartburn, vertigo, extreme lassitude, loss of energy, peevishness, etc., is the bane of their existence and mars the complacent feelings of others around the family fireside. Why won't dyspeptics come and be cured? It can be done. There is one sure way of strengthening the digestive organs and removing every symptom of general debility caused thereby. But this cannot be done by the taking of pills and other cathartic mixtures. Such treatment while seeming to give temporary relief at first, in the end aggravates the disease and increases the suffering, for it is like whipping a tired horse, it irritates and urges, but the strength to move at last gives out entirely. Thousands of former dyspeptics are now happy in health and strength of stomach brought about by the use of the finest of strengthening and healing tonic alteratives known as Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla, the condensed virtue of many excellent herbs. It is the biggest and the best Sarsaparilla sold.

Application for Decree to Sell Land.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County,

In Probate Court, for said County, Special Term, Sept. 15th, 1890.

This day came Mrs. Millie A. Prickett, joint owner, and tenant in common with F. I. Hannah Emma E. Hannah, and filed in Court her application praying for a decree to sell certain lands in said petition described for partition and division among the joint owners, upon the death of the wife, Fannie A. Ryan, Tate & Rowland of this place, but in 1857, seeking a larger business field, he moved to Selma, Ala., and took place with the large wholesale house of Hardie & Robinson.

In 1858 he intermarried with Miss Fannie Abernathy, of Jacksonville, Ala., and some time in the year 1859, purchased a large tract of land on Cane Creek, to which he moved, and on which he demonstrated that "farming will pay" when the same thoughtful attention and intelligent direction is given to it that is given to other departments of business.

In 1861, at the first call for troops, Maj. Francis joined the confederate forces and served on the staff of Gen. John H. Forney with the title of Major till the close of the war.

In 1865 he returned to his home to find much of a fortune already acquired, swept from him by the disastrous results of the war; but nothing daunted, he began to rebuild and regain what had been lost. His plantation was soon rehabilitated, and a prosperous mercantile business established at his own home. Meanwhile his business talent became so well known and was so highly appreciated that he became successively the representative in the Southern States of the commercial houses of Stokesbury & McLean, Cochran, McLean & Co., and lastly of the celebrated house of A. T. Stewart & Co., of New York. Several years since he established a large mercantile business in the city of Montgomery associated with Mr. Joe F. Cobbs, which was profitably conducted and continued for a number of years. More recently, desiring to withdraw from such active and varied interests and pursuits, he retired to his country home and its surroundings which he had made the center of trade and business in that part of the country.

Maj. Francis was eminently a man of business; thoughtful, farseeing and systematic; prudent and cautious and yet more than ordinarily active and prompt in the execution of his plans. In all matters of business his word was the equal of his bond.

He was not one of those "who talk like an angel—and done nothing." His life was one of activity. He was successful and made money. He loved to make money; not to hoard as does a miser, nor senselessly scatter with the prodigality of a spendthrift, but as a means to bring to himself, his relations and his friends the comforts and enjoyments of life. He lent assistance and gave ungrudgingly to all worthy objects whose necessities were made known to him. He gave away what to many men would be esteemed a handsome fortune. Many a friend will remember his generous hand in the hour of need.

When a boy, fifteen years old, he professed religion and joined the church of his parents—the Methodist Episcopal Church. It may be that in the intervening years, he lost his membership with the church, but in the last few months of his life, his utterances and his acts show that the shining light of the Cross was not entirely obscured from his vision, nor had his old time faith in God died.

MAJOR THOMAS W. FRANCIS.

In Memoriam.

On the night of the 21st of October, 1890, MAJOR T. W. FRANCIS died, in Jacksonville, Ala., at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mayor H. L. Stevenson, in the fifty-fourth year of his age.

Every day and every hour some friend is called upon to chronicle the death and deplore the loss of an acquaintance, friend or loved one; but rarely does it happen that we note the departure of one, so much a man of mark, as was the subject of this memorial.

Maj. Francis was born in Jasper, Tennessee, on the 22nd of July, 1837, but was brought to this place by his parents, whether they moved, while he was yet an infant in the nurses arms.

Before he reached his teens he developed a wonderful fondness for traffic and trade, and, afterwards, a decided talent for commercial pursuits. At the age of fourteen he entered the mercantile establishment of the successful firm of Woodward & Porter, at a small salary, and by his business tact and industry, soon won first rank among the business men of that day. At the age of 18 he became associated with the firm of Ryan, Tate & Rowland of this place, but in 1857, seeking a larger business field, he moved to Selma, Ala., and took place with the large wholesale house of Hardie & Robinson.

In 1858 he intermarried with Miss Fannie Abernathy, of Jacksonville, Ala., and some time in the year 1859, purchased a large tract of land on Cane Creek, to which he moved, and on which he demonstrated that "farming will pay" when the same thoughtful attention and intelligent direction is given to it that is given to other departments of business.

In 1861, at the first call for troops, Maj. Francis joined the confederate forces and served on the staff of Gen. John H. Forney with the title of Major till the close of the war.

In 1865 he returned to his home to find much of a fortune already acquired, swept from him by the disastrous results of the war; but nothing daunted, he began to rebuild and regain what had been lost. His plantation was soon rehabilitated, and a prosperous mercantile business established at his own home. Meanwhile his business talent became so well known and was so highly appreciated that he became successively the representative in the Southern States of the commercial houses of Stokesbury & McLean, Cochran, McLean & Co., and lastly of the celebrated house of A. T. Stewart & Co., of New York. Several years since he established a large mercantile business in the city of Montgomery associated with Mr. Joe F. Cobbs, which was profitably conducted and continued for a number of years. More recently, desiring to withdraw from such active and varied interests and pursuits, he retired to his country home and its surroundings which he had made the center of trade and business in that part of the country.

Maj. Francis was eminently a man of business; thoughtful, farseeing and systematic; prudent and cautious and yet more than ordinarily active and prompt in the execution of his plans. In all matters of business his word was the equal of his bond.

He was not one of those "who talk like an angel—and done nothing." His life was one of activity. He was successful and made money. He loved to make money; not to hoard as does a miser, nor senselessly scatter with the prodigality of a spendthrift, but as a means to bring to himself, his relations and his friends the comforts and enjoyments of life. Application for Decree to Sell Land.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

In Probate Court, for said County, Special Term, Sept. 25th 1890.

This day came Mrs. Millie A. Prickett, joint owner and tenant in common with F. I. Hannah Emma E. Hannah, and filed in Court her application praying for a decree to sell certain lands in said petition described for partition and division among the joint owners, upon the grounds that the same cannot be equitably divided without a sale.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the said lands be sold at public auction on the 18th day of November 1890, to the highest bidder.

This day came A. McCollister, agent for the estate of the late F. H. Dailey deceased, and filed in Court his account and vouchers for a final settlement of the administration of J. F. Dailey, who at the time of his death was administrator of estate of Chas. Dambanck.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the 17th day of November 1890 be and is hereby appointed the day upon which to audit and pass upon said account and make settlement of the same as may be directed by the court.

Given for three successive weeks in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear before me, at my office in the Court House of said county, on said 17th day of November 1890 and contest said settlement if they think proper.

EMMETT F. CROOK,
sept-25-3t Judge of Probate.

FINAL SETTLEMENT.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

NOVEMBER 8, 1890.

The Legislature meets next Tuesday.

Gen. Forney's majority will be between four and five thousand.

Butler ran best where he was least known.

Alabama sends a solid Democratic delegation to Congress.

Illinois elects twelve Democrats to Congress out of twenty members.

Indiana elects eleven Democrats to Congress out of thirteen members.

West Virginia gives a safe Democratic majority. So does Delaware.

It is a very dangerous thing to fool around the heels of an old war horse.

In Shelby county Butler and Forney tied. There was not more than half a vote.

The Democratic party is still the biggest thing in this country by long odds.

Democrats don't sell their principles for a glittering bribe of governmental favor.

Everett has beaten Felton in the Seventh Georgia District by over 2,000 majority.

Ben Tillman has beaten Haskell, the Independent, for Governor of South Carolina.

A gain of nine Congressmen in Ohio is a pretty good day's work for the Democrats.

Heretofore strong Republican counties in Florida have returned immense Democratic majority.

Voters of Calhoun, mark and remember the men who wanted to retire the old war horses to the rear.

The result of the election in this district shows that the masses of the people do not take kindly to sneaking politics.

When the Fifty-Second Congress meets the Republican minority will find Tom Reed's rules very inconvenient.

The Democrats made great gains of Congressmen in Ohio, the delegation now stands 14 Democrats to 7 Republicans.

Mr. Wm. Cook says that the people have saddled the old "war horse" again and that he does not need any spur.

The Georgia Legislature is in session, and a dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., says that Gen. Gordon will be elected U. S. Senator.

If you want to see some fellows in this county turn pale around the gills, just ask them to please lead that old "war horse to the rear."

The litter-bearers have been busy ever since the election carrying off the little fellows who essayed to lead the war horse to the rear.

Lodge, the author of the Force bill, was elected two years ago by 5,000 majority. Tuesday he was re-elected by only 500 majority.

President Harrison's State, Indiana, went Democratic almost unanimously. There is only the merest thread of a Republican party left there.

Three hundred and thirty-five men in Calhoun preferred Butler for Congressman to Gen. Forney. Two thousand, two hundred and fifty preferred quite the contrary.

Nearly every virulent hater of the South in the House has been elected to stay at home. The country wants peace and low taxes, and the Democratic party is going to give it both.

The Farmers' Alliance in Calhoun has shown that it is not at the beck and call of every little bob-tailed demagogue who comes along offering them bread and butter for their votes.

The Republican leaders are now quarreling over what caused the great disaster. Senator Farwell and others say the tariff bill did it, but that the people will be educated up to like it.

Butler got almost the entire solid Republican vote in outside counties and this accounts for his apparent strength in some of them. The true blue Democrats of the District, as a rule, let him severely alone.

The loss of three U. S. Senators in Republican strongholds in the last election reduces the Republican majority in the Senate next Congress to eight. In two or three years more this will be overcome, and then the country will enjoy relief from burdensome taxation and reckless extravagance.

East Tennessee came near falling into Democratic line under the spur of the force bill and tariff bill. Evans and Taylor who voted for both were defeated, and Houck, whose majority has heretofore been 10,000, only came in by about 4,000. A loss of 12,000 in one district serves to show the tremendous political change in East Tennessee.

THE STEEL PLANT.

Col. Alexander, chief engineer of construction of the steel plant and Mr. Twiname, contractor for the same, reached Jacksonville Thursday night, and will remain and put the work under construction as fast as possible. Mr. Twiname is one of the largest contractors in New York city, having recently finished up large contracts on the Croton Aqueduct and the New York Central Railroad. The contractor is under heavy bond to complete the work in the 18 months prescribed in the contract.

The Democratic Executive Committee of Montgomery county will expel a member of the committee who supported Pilley, Independent, against Herbert, Democratic nominee. This is right. A man who won't stand by the organization of his party has no right to hold official position in it. The rule ought to be extended to the ranks and file of the party also, and Democrats who vote against nominees of their party ought not to be permitted to participate in subsequent beat and county conventions. A man who will not support the nominees of his party ought not to be permitted to help make nominations. The Democratic Executive Committee of Calhoun will doubtless take proper action in this regard.

H. Clay Evans of Chattanooga, one of the Southern Republican Congressmen who voted for the force bill, the McKinley tariff bill and the compound land bill, has been beaten in a District, which is naturally Republican, by Mr. Snodgrass, Democratic nominee. The Chattanooga Times says that if he had not truckled to the Republican bosses in Congress, but had stood loyally by the people of the South as they were effected by these measures, no power on earth could have defeated him. May all traitors to the South meet the fate of H. Clay Evans.

Butler sent out his "platform" signed:

W. O. BUTLER,
Member of Oxford Alliance.

What would you think of a candidate who should sign himself thus:

JOHN DOE,
Member of the church;

or thus:

RICHARD ROE,
Member of the Masonic fraternity.

When Butler next runs for Congress he ought to sign his "platform"

W. O. BUTLER,
Late second-best to Logan.

All honor to the noble farmers of Calhoun who refused to be seduced from their allegiance to the Democratic party by glittering promises of government bounty, and who fought side by side with all classes and occupations for the preservation of their freedom and the freedom of their children. Such men will do to tie.

The negroes of Calhoun county did not appreciate Brother Butler's Southern plank, wherein he expressed so much solicitude for their welfare. They put Jack Logan on the track and beat him with a negro. It is about time that Butler should crawl into an auger hole and then get some kind friend to plug it up.

In the election before the last the Republicans carried the State of Michigan by 20,000 majority. In the election Tuesday the Democrats carried the State by 10,000 majority and control both branches of the Legislature and make a gain of several Congressmen.

The Congressional election result in this county stands:

Forney, Democrat, first by an overwhelming majority.

Logan, colored, second.

Butler, anything to get votes, third.

Bob Mosely, Dr. Ewing and other Boss Republicans fought nobly to elect Butler over the Democratic nominee, but the negroes drew the line at Butler and the thing didn't work.

The Democrats overcame an 80,000 majority in Pennsylvania and elected Pattison, Democrat by 10,000 majority. A change of 90,000 is pretty tough on the Republicans, but they will have to stand it.

Real estate transactions this week in Jacksonville have continued with unabated activity. Several large buyers have been here this week, and these with the local dealers, have kept things exceedingly lively.

The men who have been telling it around that Logan was put out by Democrats can now take a rest. The lie is no longer available for political purposes; the people didn't believe it.

The men who were out shouting last week "old war horses to the rear," have gone home to their wives to help with the washing and take care of the babies.

The fellows who "backed" Butler in this county can now retire to a fence-corner and figure out the amount of their political influence.

The country has spoken in thunder tones against the McKinley tariff bill and the force bill.

Calhoun gave Forney 2,250, Logan 345, Butler 334.

Cleburne gave Forney a majority of between 200 and 300.

The Banner Beat.

Morrisville, Ala., Nov. 5.—The election at Polkville passed off very quietly yesterday. There was not a full vote of the beat, but every ticket read "W. H. Forney for Congress." There has not been a straight out radical vote cast in beat for ten years or more. If there is another beat in Calhoun county that can show a clearer record I would like to hear from it.

BROAD AX.

HOW THINGS HAVE GONE.

McKinley is beaten. Indiana has gone Democratic. Wisconsin has gone Democratic. Michigan has gone Democratic. Minnesota has gone Democratic. Montana has gone Democratic. New Hampshire has gone Democratic.

Massachusetts has gone Democratic.

Rhode Island has gone Democratic.

Connecticut has gone Democratic.

Pennsylvania has gone Democratic.

The Solid-South has gone Democratic.

McKinley, the author of the last tariff bill, has been defeated.

New Mexico has gone Democratic for the first time in thirty years.

Wisconsin, New Hampshire and New York all elect Democratic Legislatures.

Cannon, of Illinois, a bitter enemy of the South and the man who made the obscene speech in the late session of Congress, has been defeated.

Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, one of the bitterest enemies of the South, will be defeated for re-election. The People's party aided by the Democrats in Kansas have literally wiped the earth up with the Republicans.

The free people of the United States rise up as one man to rebuke any party which seeks to manacle the voter. They still regard the Democratic party as the palladium of their liberties. Amid this great groundswell of the free and unfettered Democracy, the men who left its ranks to follow off such little fellows as Butler, on "forty acres and a mule" issues, must feel small enough to fit loosely in a mustard seed. While the old guard were battling for liberty, they were out of line foraging for rations.

SAM SLIM.

OXFORD, ALA., Nov. 13th, 1890. I've been walking around under a bran new derby for several days. Now don't begin to conclude I won it on the election, for I didn't, but the election had something to do with it, nevertheless. You see, when I heard the Democratic rooster crowing so lustily, and saw the Republican rooster afiggin' up the McKinley tariff bill, and looking like he was sick unto death, and read of the grand and glorious democratic victory from Maine to Mexico, I failed to throw my old hat up, and when I looked at it, after I got through reading of the Democratic cyclone here, and the Republican snow under there, and the hurricane that swept the independents out of existence everywhere and that the negro beat Butler, member of Oxford Alliance, in Calhoun county, the whole crower was well nigh bursted. Now this ain't made up story. I've got the old hat at home, where any who doubt my word may see it, and I think I'll keep it, at least till Nov. '92 to warn me to throw up my hat in time, so as to prevent a like explosion and a like necessity of buying a new one.

One Republican said to another, after we had reliable news of a Democratic majority of a hundred or more, "my views?" Well, he replied, "We have a good working majority." "I knew it would be so when we got it straight," replied the other. Well, I guess the Republicans in the next Congress will wiggle rather than work. And if Tom Reed is not unseated, as he should be, I ask the speaker, whoever he may be, to never, no never, recognize the aforesaid Tom Reed, during the whole session.

Some who claim to be Democrats in this beat, didn't vote for Butler, because they were in the county convention and couldn't consistently vote against the nominee. They didn't vote for Forney because the man they wanted wasn't nominated. Why they didn't vote for Jack Logan, deponent saith not. Such Democracy needs lots of boiling down, and lots of scimming to get the impurities out of it.

The Alliance cotton buyer who was to be in Oxford last week, and on whose promise to be here and pay Liverpool prices, less freight and insurance, the farmers filled the warehouse to overflowing, and camped on every available spot in and around the town from one to three days, failed to put in an appearance. Poor fellow, I don't much blame him, for according to the program he must pay his own railroad fare, hotel bills, and loose his time, and make not a cent by it. He just couldn't afford it.

And yet many of the Alliance farmers believed it and brought their cotton and waited for their man, just like they didn't know he would have starved to death before the time if he commenced such foolishness at the first of the season. And just like they didn't know that men who buy cotton have to be paid for it. One might not think that they could be fooled again, but they can, and next season several cotton buyers that lack as much of belonging to the Alliance as a hog does of belonging to the church, will combine on some strategem to get them to bring in lots of cotton at some one time, and they'll buy it at Liverpool prices, less freight, insurance and profits just like they did this time.

THE TIDAL WAVE.

The Democrats Have Over One Hundred Majority—A Gain of Five Senators.

As returns continue to come in, it grows hard to realize what a stupendous victory that was last Tuesday. There has been no such political revolution in the whole history of the country.

The net result is that the next congress will be composed of only 33 republicans and 235 democrats and democrats and western alliance.

The democrats gained governors in New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota and Kansas.

They now have all, or a majority of congressmen in Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin, or in thirty-one of the forty-two States of the Union.

It looks like Cleveland and Blaine again. Just now there is no other prominent republican who can gather the demoralized and shattered bands into anything like fighting condition.

Chicago Tribune, (Rep.)

Will they take in the full meaning of the 4th of November? If they do they will when congress reassembles knock out those features of the McKinley bill which have knocked them out and which the people have rejected. If they refuse to do that, but allow the present new and excessive duties on the necessities of life to stay, the congress which follows may represent a people so embittered by an overdose of McKinleyism that it will sweep away protection altogether.

New York Mail and Express, (Rep.)

A congress that shrank from the fulfillment of no pledge or obligation and that did much in the way of positive legislation necessarily provoked an immense amount of criticism and opposition and furnished the democrats with plenty of material for more or less malignant and unjust attacks.

It will be found, however, we believe, that wherever the fight has been squarely made by republicans, under inspiring leadership, and on straight republican principles, there the party has gained largely. The campaigns of Speaker Reed and Leader McKinley for re-election have been glorious illustrations of this.

Philadelphia Inquirer, (Rep.)

The results of these elections draw the lines of battle for 1892. The widespread democratic victory forces the democracy into positive advocacy of advanced "tariff reform." If Pennsylvania and the other republican States had maintained their position in the party ranks, the most prominent candidate before the democratic party today would be Governor Hill.

But the democracy can have little use for Hill now. Cleveland is thrust to the front by force of circumstances to lead the free trade hosts, and the issue of '92 must of necessity be the same old struggle between free trade and protection. The McKinley bill is absolutely safe during the administration of President Harrison only. Its safety after that will depend entirely upon the result of the battle two years hence.

With Cleveland leading the democratic forces, who will lead the republican side? Does the situation point to Blaine?

Boston Herald, (Ind.)

Henry Cabot Lodge is elected to congress again, but his victory is one that has more of the elements of defeat than of triumph in its attendant conditions. Indeed, the shadow of impending defeat is already upon him in those objects of his ambition for which he has sacrificed what should have been much to a man of his education and early associations.

Though he wins the seat in congress again, there is no man in the State who is more pointedly condemned by the sentiment of Massachusetts than he. No man had so much to do with fixing the issues of the canvass; no man appeared so actively at the front in carrying them out. He took pains to so identify himself with the canvass as to invite public opinion upon himself and his cause. He has received it in emphatic terms and in full measure. The moral of it is that it pays in the long, after all, to adhere to principle, and that the temporary triumphs of the politician pale before the satisfaction of knowing that one has at least sincere and statesmanlike aspirations.

New York Tribune, (Rep.)

The solid south was the joker of the democracy, and the Ohio gerrymander and the saloons it knavish right and left bowers; and the republicans were consequently eunched.

Baltimore Sun, (Dem.)

Hon. William E. Russell, the brilliant young democrat who has just been elected governor of Massachusetts by a handsome plurality over his republican opponent, made his campaign almost exclusively on the tariff reform issue. Being interviewed on the result, Mr. Russell said:

"The one supreme question was the tariff question, and the result means that Massachusetts stands absolutely

What the Papers Say.

Kansas City Times, (Dem.)

What can the republicans do to win back this enormous disaffection? Can they repudiate Reed, Harrison and McKinley? If so, they must repudiate the whole band of state leaders who followed those men. They must take back so much that it will look like swallowing themselves.

Blaine alone remains a hope. He told what the McKinley bill was, and he put his name to a free trade reciprocity doctrine, which means no practical relief to the country, but may sound well enough to answer his purpose.

It looks like Cleveland and Blaine again. Just now there is no other prominent republican who can gather the demoralized and shattered bands into anything like fighting condition.

It is hard to realize that the time world never come to the South, when any man who knows of the struggles and hardships endured by those who served the Confederacy, would talk about relegating war veterans to the rear. It was done here in Alabama in Gen. Forney's district by disorganizers and men who sought to defeat the Democratic party.

LETTER FROM MONTGOMERY.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 12, 1890.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:
The Legislature met yesterday and both houses had temporary organization. In the Senate caucus there was no contests of consequence over the offices of the Senate. In the House the contest for the Speaker-ship was very spirited. This morning the Senate was permanently organized by the election of Hon. A. C. Hargrove, of Tuscaloosa, president; W. L. Clay, secretary; Thos. H. Clark, assistant secretary; Jas. Armstrong, doorkeeper; Miss Jean Weakley, of Florence, enrolling and engrossing clerk. Most of these held the same positions in the Senate at the last session.

In the House Hon. N. N. Clements, of Tuscaloosa, was elected Speaker. In the caucus Clements received 45 votes, Hon. Frank Petrus received 35 votes and Hon. H. H. Brown received 9 votes. Mr. Elmore, the old clerk of the House, was re-elected. Robt. Hasson, the one-legged Confederate, was re-elected doorkeeper. Most of the minor positions were filled by men who had served before.

This morning both houses went regularly to work and it is now in progress as I write. The absorbing topic of conversation is the U. S. Senatorship. It is impossible at this time to forecast the result. The election will not come off before next Tuesday week and the caucus will not be held until near that time. Senator Milner has introduced a bill for redistricting and reapportioning representation in the State and the matter will be referred to a special committee.

I went out to the Fair yesterday with Mr. Willett, of Anniston, and Representative Cooper and heard a speech from Mr. Livingston, the recently elected Congressman from Georgia. It was a good speech. At night there was a big democratic rally and an abundance of fire works and much enthusiasm. Among the speakers was Mr. Russell, another member elect from Georgia to Congress. Both these gentlemen are very prominent alliance men and both impress on their audiences the great necessity for democratic harmony and unity. Both acknowledge that relief to the people of this country must come through the democratic party. Both contend that alliance principles, when well understood, are democratic principles. The city is full of people and it is hard to get even a place to sleep in. Some men sit up in the hotel lobbies at night. Several gentlemen from Calhoun are here, both from Anniston and the country.

Tomorrow is Confederate Veterans day at the Fair and there will be a great gathering of these old heroes on that day.

Will write each week, if I can find time and keep your readers posted on pending legislation.

A 54,000 SPINDLE COTTON MILL IN TREDEGAR.

The Water Supply Is Inexhaustible.

Mr. H. W. Fairbanks, of Boston, Mass., who, it is probable, will be the manager of the great Tredegar Cotton Mill, was in the city this week examining into the question of a water supply for the plant. As a 54,000 spindle mill will use something like 1,500,000 gallons of water per day, this is important matter to the proposing investors. Mr. Fairbanks left on Thursday for home entirely satisfied that there is no limit to the supply of water available for manufacturing purposes at Tredegar.

Robbing of the Many for the Enrichment of the Few.

Chattanooga Times.

The McKinley tariff bill was built on the plan the old farmer adopted to find out how high a fence his breechy horse could and would jump. To ascertain the steed's leaping capacity his master puts a medium fence round the pasture and increases its height every morning by putting on a single rail. McKinley's tariff scheme (?) consists in an attempt to shut out foreign competition, wholly regardless of the fairness of such competition. This policy is mere favoritism to special interests at the expense of the great mass of the people. We favor the protection that will give American producers an equal chance at the home market with all other producers, no sops or subsidies, no favors, a clear field. We also favor a fiscal system that will give our manufacturers opportunity to compete for the markets of South America, Mexico, Canada—all the Western world. We will never consent to raising a duty solely to shut out the foreign made article. Such duties are simple plunder of our own people. Raising the rate from time to time as we find that the old rate can be scaled by foreign producers, is merely voting a subsidy from the pockets of our own people into the coffers of favored manufacturers, robbing of the many for the enrichment of the few.

Two Irish Patriots.

Montgomery Advertiser.

Some of the English newspapers are disposed to vindicate the flight from that country of Dillon and O'Brien, the Irish patriots. English humor is a very solemn thing to Americans. There is a laugh in it somewhere; but we have never been able to discover it.

The reception tendered to the famous advocates of home rule is a rebuke to these English editors. They have received ovations wherever they have been showered upon them; they have gained grace for themselves and help for the great cause they represent.

Dillon and O'Brien are the representatives of a cause which has always received the sympathy of Americans. They are not here as refugees from justice, as the English editors would have us believe. They are here for their country's sake.

Their ringing appeals to Irishmen in America, and to Americans generally, will not pass unanswered. Great good will be accomplished by their visit; and when it is accomplished they will return with renewed strength to fight the battles of freedom and reform.

They are great men, enlisted in a great cause.

Alabama's Advancement.

The Senate and House of Representatives organized permanently Wednesday. The Governor's annual message was transmitted to the General Assembly. It is an able and comprehensive State paper. It refers with pride to the present prosperous condition of the State, reviewing the condition of public affairs in a clear and statesmanlike manner. The finances are represented to be in an excellent condition, with a balance in the treasury of over $200,000. The property value has increased from $175,805,007 in 1886, to $258,079,575 in 1890, and the tax rate has been reduced in that time from 6 to 4 mills.

Increased and additional appropriations are recommended for the support of deaf mutes, indigent and insane, public schools, maimed and disabled survivors of the late war, and the State troops.

The public institutions of the State are reported to be under excellent management and in a flourishing condition.

An increase of official salaries is strongly recommended, and the creation of a commission on penal servitude to examine and report at the next session is suggested. The message makes an excellent showing for Alabama's advancement and progress.

EX-GOVERNOR O'NEAL

Passed Away Yesterday Morning—Universal Regret at Florence.

FLORENCE, ALA., NOV. 7.—Ex-Governor A. E. O'Neal died at 7:20 this morning at his home in this place, surrounded by all the members of his family. Some months ago he was attacked with severe illness while on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Williams, in St. Louis. He recovered sufficiently to return to his home, but was never strong afterwards. Some weeks ago he was stricken with paralysis, and since then he alternated between life and death. There is universal sorrow here over his death, for he was greatly beloved by all who knew him.

At daylight Sunday morning the mangled remains of Mr. Vesey Scott were found near the switch on the track of the Savannah and Western railroad at Salem. Mr. Scott was the agent and operator at that place. Several trains had passed over the road during the night and it is not known when or how he was killed.

Says Ellick Czar
To Kaiser Bill:
"Here's to us three,
Our glasses fill!"
"Us three?" says Bill,
"I nix for stay;
The other must
Have got away."
"No," Ellick says;
But he's not here
To help us drink
Our friendly beer."
"Have you forgot?
Ah, no, indeed;
It's me and you
And Thomas Reed!"
By cripsas," says Bill,
It's nearer true
To say: Tom Reed
And me and you."

Marching at the Pops.

Montgomery Advertiser, 5th.

There were scenes in this city yesterday which should arouse the indignation and disgust of every true white man in Alabama. The United States marshal himself at the polls threatening to remove and replace managers appointed and selected as the State law provides, in sooth, he thought there was unnecessary delay in allowing the colored troops to cast their ballots. That was the spectacle presented to freemen at the polls in this city yesterday, the United States marshal himself endeavoring to override the law. Just such conduct as this unites and holds together the white people of Alabama, and so long as they continue there can be no division. The marshal so far forgot himself as to imagine that he could imitate Mr. Reed, and make a little law to suit the case, but he found that there were other people who knew their rights, and who had the courage and the manhood to maintain them.

GIVE THANKS.

Governor Seay Issues a Proclamation for Thanksgiving Day.

STATE OF ALABAMA, }
BY THE GOVERNOR, }

For the blessings of health, peace and prosperity accorded to the people of Alabama the past year, and for the progress made in all that contributes to our moral and material welfare, it is fitting that we should reverently return our thanks to Almighty God.

Now, therefore, in conformity to custom, and in accordance with the wishes of a devout people, I, Thomas Seay, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 27th day of the present month of November, to be observed as a day of public thanksgiving and praise; and recommend that on that day the people of this State abstain from all pursuit of their usual vocations, and, meeting in their accustomed places of worship, return thanks for the innumerable blessings bestowed on them by the Supreme Ruler, and that they remember by kindly deeds the poor and afflicted amongst them.

Done at the capitol in the city of Montgomery, this, the 10th day of November, in the year of our Lord, eighteen hundred and ninety, and of the independence of the United States, the 115th.

By the governor.

THE WOMAN IN JAIL.

Mrs. McKeo Denies Complicity in the Crime Alleged Against Her.

ROME, GA., November 10.—Mrs. Orr McKeo spent her first night behind the bars last night, and this morning looked as if refreshing sleep had come to her.

She did not talk very much, but in response to questions concerning the recent tragedy, she spoke without hesitation.

"I am innocent of the charge they have made against me. I did not do it. The reason I left home was because everybody was excited. I did not hide myself while in Florida. I could easily have escaped if I had wanted to. I wanted to come back to Rome, and I wrote to my brother, asking him to accompany me. I did not want to travel alone, for they might have arrested me on the way and treated me roughly. I came back willingly. This is all I have to say for the present."

This is about the sum and substance of the interview. She was bright and cheerful, and was neatly attired in a very pretty pink dress.

There is a bill of indictment against her, and the case stands for trial at the adjourned term of the superior court on the fourth Monday of this month. What the development of the result will be is not known. There is some difference of opinion.

A LIFE SENTENCE.

Banse and Julius Suitts Convicted of Rape and Sentenced to a Life Time in the Penitentiary.

At the November term of the circuit court of this county Banse and Julius Suitts, two white boys, aged 16 and 18 years, respectively, living near Monahan's coaling were tried and convicted of the crime of rape and their punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the penitentiary for their lives.

There was unusual interest manifested in the trial and the court house was thronged with anxious faces during the whole of the long and tiresome trial awaiting the uncertain destiny of the ill-fated defendants who were the principal actors in the awful crime.

THE CRIME.

It appears that the defendants, who are two quite prepossessing boys, were living with their parents near Monahan's coaling, about 8 miles from Jacksonville, and working in the coaling. The boys have the reputation of being rather wild, but nothing was ever charged against them of a very serious character.

Situated on the E. T. V. & G. railroad, and in about 3 miles of the Suitts house was the home of a very humble and indigent widow, Mrs. Mollie Dambman, and her three or four little children. The mother is very simple of mind and it seems, of doubtful character. The oldest child, Emma, is a very bright little girl 12 years of age. The Suitts boys were in the habit of passing by this house on their route to the commissary where they procured their food, clothing, &c.

On the 1st of November, 1889, the two brothers passed down the railroad track and, as the little girl Emma alleges, came off the track and entered her home where she, together with her little brother and sister, were seated by the fire; and at which time the mother was absent.

The brothers having entered the house ostensibly for the purpose of getting a drink of water, but when they saw the little girl there unprotected seized the opportunity and accomplished their fiendish purpose.

Having committed so heinous a crime they quickly made their way to the commissary and then went home.

A few days after that the boys, in company with their father, were met by a Mr. Smith who told the father that his sons were charged with outraging little Emma Dambman.

In two or three days from this the boys and their father were missing. They walked from their home to Rome, Ga., there taking the train for some other part of the State where they spent some time working for an uncle. Having worked some time for their uncle they became uneasy and removed to a coaling near the town of Cave Spring where they were, through the unflagging efforts of the very efficient Deputy Sheriff of Calhoun county, Mr. Jno. T. Rowland, finally captured and landed in the county jail at this place to await their trial which ended on Thursday last.

On their trial they had procured the services of Col. Jno. H. Caldwell, who ably defended the poor unfortunate.

The State was represented by Solicitor J. T. Martin, J. H. Savage and County Solicitor H. L. Stevenson.

In order to keep up with the procession the REPUBLICAN will soon order a new outfit and a complete new job office, having all the appliances for first class work in every department of job printing. New job presses will be bought and the latest and best of every other kind of material will be placed in the office.

State vs. Lee Walker, drunkenness. Guilty, fined $5.

State vs. Israel Lane; petty larceny. Found guilty, fined $5 and costs.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

when she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

when she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

when she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Under the November term of the circuit court of this county Banse and Julius Suitts, two white boys, aged 16 and 18 years, respectively, living near Monahan's coaling were tried and convicted of the crime of rape and their punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the penitentiary for their lives.

At the November term of the circuit court for Calhoun county we respectfully submit the following report:

We have diligently inquired into and true presentment made of all offenses, which have come to our knowledge by which we believe the public good would be subserved by a prosecution.

We would further state to your Honor, that this grand jury have cause, by the rapid increase of crime in the violation of the prohibition law of our county, and the low estimate placed upon their oaths, of quite a number of witnesses that have been before this body disallowed, and we would earnestly ask those who have authority to take steps to stop the whisky traffic, that we have reason to believe, is now, and has been going on in every beat in our county under cover of wagons, blind tigers of various descriptions and "slid jugs." We would further state that those witnesses for whom attachments were issued have not been before us, and the cause why has not been explained to this body.

Justices of the peace have been generally prompt in exhibiting a transcript of their dockets to us.

We have carefully examined the offices and books of the probate judge, circuit clerk, sheriff and treasurer, and find the books accurately, legibly and neatly kept, with the offices well furnished with the necessary furniture, etc., for the protection of the books and papers.

We have also examined the books and papers of the county superintendent of education, and state that we find said books ably and neatly kept, and proper vouchers for all moneys paid out. School fund remains in the State treasury, and is only drawn on quarterly contracts.

We find that there are a few teachers who have not called for their prorate, which amounts are subject to their order.

We can safely say that we have every cause to believe that with the co-operation of our citizens, that ere long we will have a system of public schools that we will have cause to be proud of.

We have examined all the bonds of the county officers and find the all good as the law directs, except that of John P. Weaver, which has but one living surety.

We have visited and examined the county poor house and find the same neatly and well kept, showing the keeper to be fully alive to his duties, and in sympathy with the unfortunate ones placed in his care. Food, clothing and bedding was all we could ask.

We have examined the county jail and report that in our judgement, one of the cells is very insecure and badly ventilated. We also find that there is a want of clothing and bedding for some of the prisoners.

With thanks to your honor for courtesies, to our able solicitor for kindly attention and help, and lastly to our bailiff for close attention to our wants, and after having done what seems to us, to be our duty, we respectfully ask to be discharged.

J. C. Watson, foreman; Wm. C. Scarbrough, Jno. A. Cobb, J. T. Vincent, F. W. Foster, T. S. Gray, B. D. Dixie, R. C. Johnston, E. T. Clark, J. L. Whisenant, W. T. Wells, J. Nick Suggs, O. M. Davenport, Henry E. Canady, T. J. Palmer, N. J. Stevens, L. A. Hanks, Wm. Alexander, Sr.

In order to keep up with the procession the REPUBLICAN will soon order a new outfit and a complete new job office, having all the appliances for first class work in every department of job printing. A REPUBLICAN OUTRAGE.

Make the Cause of These Democratic Workingmen Your Own. Remember the Russells.

Massillon, O., November 8.—The city of Massillon is ablaze with indignation on the part of the workingmen of both parties against the tyrannical action of a leading manufacturing firm, Russell & Co., in reducing the wages of every Democrat who voted for Warwick to the extent of 33 per cent.

It is denounced by every one as a most despicable effort at revenge for McKinley's defeat.

The firm of Russell & Co., are the largest manufacturers of agricultural machinery, steam engines and similar articles in this section, their immense business being conducted mostly in the south and west. They employ about 700 hands in the busy season, more than 400 being employed the year round.

During the campaign the Russells, who are staunch Republicans, interested themselves deeply in the election of Mr. McKinley, although no coercive measures were used upon the men save one, and that only by highly significant intimation. On Monday the price lists of the piece workmen were taken up, the Democrats in the shops saying that discrimination was made between themselves and the Republicans, whose cards were not bothered. These price lists are slips on which are scheduled the prices to be paid for piece work. Yesterday a large number of Democrats received their cards with the prices revised, a cut of 33 per cent. being made on every article. Other workmen, who were paid by the hour, were also notified of this enormous reduction. One of these, Edward Sheehan, a machinist, at once tendered his resignation, and it was promptly accepted. He was notified of the cut by Foreman Garrigues, who at the time told him that it was not on account of his conduct or his workmanship, assuring him that his work had been fully up to the standard. He gave the order because he had been instructed to do so by Mr. C. H. Russell. Mr. Sheehan demanded to know if it was done because he was a democrat, but received no answer whatever. Three or four others who received the revised cards also left the shops for the day. This intelligence was quickly disseminated throughout the city. Upon hearing it Lieutenant Governor Warwick, the newly-elected democratic successor to Congressman McKinley, could scarcely bring himself to believe it. Investigating the story he found it to be only too true. He immediately said: "What an outrage, what a shame! It is terrible, terrible! I am shocked and surprised, indeed, by this infamous act. Driven from work because they voted for me."

At once began to make preparations to relieve the men who had been so outrageously treated. A telegram was sent to Hon. Michael D. Harter, of the fifteenth district, who has large shops at Mansfield, asking him if he could not make room for those who had practically been evicted. Mr. Isaac Harter personally interesting himself in the matter. Shortly after 1 o'clock Mr. C. H. Russell was accosted by Otto E. Young, the Democratic candidate for probate judge, and a leading lawyer of Massillon.

Mr. Young asked the manufacturer if it was true that the reduction had been made, and received the hearty response: "Henceforth in our shops free traders will receive free traders' wages."

Later when asked about the reduction by a reporter, Mr. Russell replied:

"I will have to refer you to those workmen, sir."

"But the statement is quite serious. Is the allegation true?"

"I have nothing to say. See the men," was the reply, as the manufacturer strode hastily across the former wages.

Later in the evening Mr. Warwick received enough information to justify him, beyond all doubt, that the reduction had been made solely on the ground above stated. As the reduction of 33 per cent. cannot be withstood by the workmen, they will probably have to leave the shops and work elsewhere.

The oldest citizens of Massillon feel more indignantly toward Russell & Co., because of the fact that when their plant was founded here many years ago, it was sustained through several financial difficulties by leading men, irrespective of party.

It is likely that an indignation meeting will be held unless the reduction is done away with.

The Lame Walk.

Pitiful indeed is the condition of those who are confined to their beds or chairs unable to walk. How grateful all such must feel when they recover from their helplessness. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) has made more than one lame person happy.

Mrs. Emma Griffiths Unitia, Tenn., writes: "My little boy had scrofula so bad his knees were drawn up and his knees stiff, and he could not walk. He derived no benefit from medicines until I tried B. B. After using it a short time only, he can walk and has no pain. I shall continue its use."

Mrs. M. Tanner, Booneville, Ind., writes: "I had blood poison from birth. Knots on my limbs were as large as hen's eggs. Doctors said I would be a cripple, but B. B. has cured me sound and well. I shall ever praise the day the men who invented Blood Balm were born."

JOHN G. WARWICK.

The Man Who Wears McKinley's Seal at His Belt.

John G. Warwick, of Massillon, O., Major McKinley's Congressional opponent, is neither a "judge" nor a "farmer," as the newspapers have erroneously called him during the campaign just closed. Mr. Warwick is a plain business man. His political experience has been short. He was nominated for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket with Gov. Headley in 1888, and was elected. Two years later he was nominated together with Gov. Headley, and the entire Democratic State ticket was defeated. This comprises his entire political life until the recent campaign.

Mr. Warwick was born in Ireland about 55 years ago, and came to America while quite young. His parents settled near Massillon, and there he has since resided. He is essentially a self-made man. After acquiring a fair education he entered business for himself and for many years past has owned and operated one of the largest milling establishments in northern Ohio. He is also interested in several coal mines near Massillon and does quite an extensive business. While in fair financial circumstances he is not by any means a rich man, and his property over and above outstanding liabilities would probably fall within $100,000.

Mr. Warwick has always been very popular at home. Massillon is a little town of 8,000 people, and he has long been one of the most solid business men of the place. He is a fair conversationalist and an agreeable, affable gentleman; but he never made a political speech in his life and has never taken the stump in his own interest. In his business he has the reputation of being shrewd but strictly honest and straightforward.

He has always applied business principles to politics, and his campaigns have been well conducted. In the present instance he had the advantage of perhaps 1,500 votes, but to counterbalance this he was pitted against the strongest man in the Republican party and one who had unlimited financial backing. The Republicans brought into the District Blaine, Reed, Burrows, Foraker, and others of the best orators in the party, while the single speech of Gov. Hill represents the outside help of the Democrats. But an aggressive red hot campaign was waged unceasingly and the best talent was on the stump at every crossroads hamlet from the day the campaign opened to the evening before the election.

Mr. Warwick has always been prominently identified with charitable enterprises. One act in this direction is worthy of mention. About ten years ago the miners of the upper Tuscarawas region struck against a reduction of wages. The wages in the Warwick mines were not reduced and there was no strike there. The neighboring miners who went out were in poor shape to endure a lockout, and their families were soon in need of the necessities of life. When they were almost starved into submission and about determined to go back, they were surprised to receive two car-loads of flour from some unknown friend and sympathizer. The result can easily be imagined. The mine owners were indignant and when they traced the flour to the door of John G. Warwick, himself a mine owner, their wrath knew no bounds. They lost no time in visiting him to administer a scathing lecture for what they termed his unwarranted interference in behalf of the strikers and against his brother mine operators. But this aroused Mr. Warwick's Celtic ire and he very emphatically told his visitors that he proposed to stand by the striking miners and their starving families until the just demands of the men were complied with. And he meant it, too, for another shipment of flour was sent down the line and the operators struck their colors and restored the former wages.

ALABAMA STILL IN THE LEAD.

A Baltimore Estimate of Southern Progress.

Manufacturers' Record.

The Manufacturers' Record is able to give herewith what may be properly termed a representative Baltimore view of the development in the Southern Appalachian region. This was the subject of an interview had with a gentleman prominent in business, and financial circles of Baltimore, just returned from a round trip of the South, taken for the purpose of making a personal examination of the growth and advancement reported from week to week in the Manufacturers' Record. The estimate placed upon the Southern movement by a man trained to strict, careful and conservative methods after a tour which included the principal points between Shenandoah Junction and Birmingham will be received with unusual interest and, in this case, gratification. The verdict is: "It is a sound movement, resting on a solid basis. It is not going too fast, so far as industrial development is concerned; on the contrary, it seems to me to be hardly yet begun. My conclusion is that high water mark will be reached only when the resources are fully utilized, and that time is not far off. What has already been done seems but preliminary to the great development which is coming. I was surprised at the evidences of a many-sided prosperity which I witnessed on my journey down on one side of the mountains and back on the other. Industries and agriculture flourish side by side. Everywhere I found good times and busy people.

My trip began with the Roanoke excursion, which left Baltimore October 15. Accompanied by a friend, I proceeded thence to Knoxville, which we found a beautiful and busy place. It is substantially built, has a fine territory and a good trade, and is enjoying a healthful growth. It came within my knowledge that the stock of one real estate company there was worth four on one.

We then went to Middleborough, our trip giving us a chance to look at some of the most beautiful scenery I ever saw. I was especially struck with the picturesque appearance of some of the natives who stood around the railway stations, their wide-brimmed white hats, top boots and unkempt locks suggesting mountain civilization of Italy or Spain. Sharply in contrast with the sleepy world of these curious mountaineers is the busy and modern town of Middleborough. Returning to Knoxville we proceeded by way of Chattanooga to Birmingham, which we found to be a very busy city, boasting of 28 furnaces. We spent a day or two at a charming hotel in the beautiful little city of Anniston, and saw the outside of most of the industries, though we did not go through them.

IMPRESSIONS OF TREDEGAR.

From Anniston we went to Tredegar, which is still known in postoffice guides and on railroad time-tables as Jacksonville, Ala., with which we were more pleased than any other point visited during our trip. I have never seen a place, outside of Baltimore, I would prefer to Tredegar as a place of residence. The climate is so delightful that we hated to go to bed and sleep away any of the time allotted to our stay there. I learned that the weather was not at any time very cold, and that the temperature was never above 90 in midsummer. Nature has made a site for a city at Tredegar. The lay of the place is perfect, requiring little or no grading for streets, and affording perfect drainage. A half dozen big springs give water supply adequate to the needs of a city. It is a town of about 3,000 inhabitants now, but the industries building will, of course, increase the population, and new people are coming in anticipation of this growth. The old part of the town is ideally Southern in its fine, comfortable homes and broad streets."

"What is the base of Tredegar's growth?"

"I am not a mineral expert, but I saw every evidence of wonderful resources in and around Tredegar. We were shown openings at the base, in the center and on top of a mountain which seemed almost solid manganese. On top of the mountain there is a head of manganese ten or twelve feet square. We also saw immense deposits of bauxite, a very valuable material for lining furnaces, which has heretofore been obtainable only in foreign countries. It looked to me as if there was a sufficient quantity of bauxite in the Tredegar deposit to last all the furnaces in America for an indefinite period."

Is there an abundant supply of iron ore at Tredegar?"

"We had time to examine only the brown hematite openings, though there are beds of red hematites, reported to be inexhaustible, near to Tredegar and owned by the company. We visited one fine show of brown ore near to the city and the next day drove out to the Butler-Green deposit, six miles distant. A gravity railroad is practicable for getting this ore to the furnace at Tredegar. We walked over ore for three hours. There seemed no end to it. In this property there is a vein of ore from 120 to 100 feet wide, running for several miles. Experts report that in this property alone there is enough high grade ore to run many furnaces for generations to come, though this is only one of the iron properties owned by Tredegar people. An evidence of the future prospects of Tredegar is the great need for houses, which are not being built fast enough to accommodate the inflow of population."

The basis upon which the Tredegar people are building seems ample for a large place. They have everything necessary for making a city—climate, topography, abundance of minerals of fine quality and endless variety near at hand, cheap lumber, marble stone of various kinds, clay, &c. Among our many pleasant experiences there was the comfortable fare at the Tredegar Inn. Our meals were the best we had during our whole trip.

THE RETURN TRIP.

After two days at Tredegar we went to Atlanta, which reminds me very much of a Northern city; thence to Savannah.

Our Southern trip ended at Richmond, which shows sympathy with the general Southern movement by steady growth and increasing activity. We returned to Baltimore firm in our faith that the South is entering upon an era of well-rounded development which will eclipse anything ever seen in this country, because no other section combines so many advantages. The South has climate, soil, minerals, timber and a homogeneous Anglo-Saxon population. It is now getting a fair share of outside capital which, of course, adds momentum to the general upbuilding. Rapid as is the growth, it is healthy and has solid basis, and is easily as yet only in its beginning, from the Potomac to Tredegar."

Victory Without New York.

If the election in 1891, in the close States, maintains anything like the relations of parties indicated by the elections of the November 1890, New York will not be necessary to a sweeping Democratic victory in 1892. All indications point to these relations being made rather more than less favorable to Democracy. We believe that it will be shown next November that, with Cleveland as the leader, we would carry Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Iowa, Connecticut, Kansas, Montana, South Dakota, Indiana, Illinois, and have a fighting chance in Ohio. With this prospect ahead the little New York clique, who want Hill because he can carry that State, and give no other reason for his nomination, will find their last prop knocked out. We shall see what we shall see; but the present outlook is that the rotten Tammany Hall will not be in position to do much dictating at the next convention.—Chatt. Times.

Graves in the Crimea.

Some interesting results were obtained from the archaeological explorations carried on in the Crimea during last summer. Professor Veselevski found painted human bones in two graves—six skeletons in one grave and one in another. The well known archaeologist, Professor Grenacher, of Breslau, who was present last year at the congress of archeologists at Moscow, is of opinion that these graves belonged to the original inhabitants of the Crimea, the Cimmerians of Herodotus. It was a usage with them to lay their dead on elevated spots so that the birds might consume the flesh. When quite decayed they painted the skeletons with some mineral pigment. Graves containing such painted skeletons have been found in Central Asia, but only in a few instances. Only three graves had been previously found in the Crimea. Professor Grenacher proposes to take the skeletons with him to Paris, and exhibit them at the congress of anthropologists to be held there during the autumn.

On the Open Polar.

A new expedition to the North Pole for which the Norwegian National Assembly voted two hundred thousand kroner, will sail from Norway in February, 1892, under the direction of M. Nansen. A specially constructed boat is being built for the undertaking, and fuel and provisions to last five years will be necessary for the voyage. The discovery of certain relics of the Jeanette, and the identification of certain weapons found on the coast of Greenland with those found by the Eskimos in the vicinity of Behring Straits at Port Clarence, Norton Sound and the mouth of the Yukon River, lead to the supposition that there is a route, comparatively short and direct, across the Arctic Ocean by way of the North Pole. This route M. Nansen and the ten or twelve men who will accompany him on the perilous journey propose to discover.

THE REAL TROUBLE AT ANNISTON.

Manufacturers' Record.

The Woodstock Iron Co.'s coke furnaces have suspended operations. They were banked for a year, and no one knows how much longer. The present state of the iron market will not justify the company in running them, and as the matter now stands coke iron will have to command a large price before they will again be put into operation. During the close down the new engine will be put in and the furnace given the needed repairs.

Commenting on the above item, which was first published in the Winston Hot Blast, the Roanoke (Va.) Times says that for 18 months past some papers "have given the public glowing accounts of what those two furnaces were going to do. When completed, vast stores of high grade iron ores close at hand, first-class coke, and hardly a chance for anybody else when they got going." And then the Times adds that it has information that "there is a very serious question as to the supply of ores" with these furnaces.

WAR OF THE DISHES.

Manufacturers' Record.

Chattanooga Times.

Dishes to right of them, dishes to left of them volleyed and thundered Sunday afternoon in the kitchen of the Read House, and the atmosphere was dark with the delicacies of the season.

The waiters and the cooks were at war, and the only flag unfurled above the battle ground was the white of the china's queensware. Deep were the mutterings of the warriors engaged, and three policemen were necessary to quiet the riot rampant.

The riot was precipitated by one of the waiters assisting himself in filling an order. It appears that the rule is that the waiters apply to the cooks for the several dishes. When the waiter Sunday took exception to this rule, one of the cooks excepted to his action, and it took but a few moments of discussion between the two to break the Sabbath and all else with which they came in contact, heads not excepted. Soon the fight became general, and into the fight rushed waiters and cooks, dressed in their best Sunday clothes. For a while it was very interesting. Beef à la mode, vanilla ice, ham, chicken with sage dressing, corn bread and butter milk, coacoanut custard, soups and smaller side dishes were flying through the air, while above the din could now and then be heard the deep bay of the pie as it came in contact with the immaculate shirt front of a waiter.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

NOVEMBER 22, 1890.

LETTER FROM MONTGOMERY.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 10, 1890.
DEAR REPUBLICAN:

Since I wrote you the Legislature has gotten down fairly to work and is doing a good deal of it, notwithstanding the attention the senatorial contest has excited.

In the legislation already proposed Calhoun county has had her fair share and will have more as the session progresses. Most of this, so far, has come from Anniston, but in a few days Piedmont, Jacksonville and other parts of the county will present bills for consideration. Anniston being the largest place in the county will necessarily ask for more local legislation than any other, and there is a disposition both with the Representative and Senator to give that progressive place all reasonable legislation asked for, as well as other points in the county, which are forging forward in the march of progress.

Mr. Cooper has already introduced several bills in the House, one of which will become a law tomorrow. Most of these are local to Anniston, but there is one affecting the whole county. It is an amendment of the present local option stock law. As the law now stands any beat in the county can hold an election whether the beat shall have a stock law or not. If the people vote for stock law, it means the keeping up of cows, horses, hogs, goats, &c. The amendment offered by Mr. Cooper to this law so fixes it that the people may vote for a partial stock law, if they choose, as well as a general stock law. For instance, they may have a stock law which only applies to hogs, sheep and goats, if they wish, which will save much in building fences. This is about as far in the direction of a stock law as our Representative cares to go; and it is hoped this compromise of the matter will meet the views of everybody interested.

There is another bill introduced by Mr. Cooper which, although local to Anniston, has a general county interest. He has stopped the bill in the committee for the present until the people may be informed as to some of its provisions through this letter. It will probably pass the House some time during next week, and any one objecting will have until then to make their objections known. The bill is in the nature of certain amendments to the Anniston City Court bill. The bill makes the jurisdiction of the court extend throughout the county, instead of four beats as at present; and, this being the case, fixes the cost of the court on the county, instead of those four beats. This would be but right, provided the jurisdiction of the court is extended, and the county gets the benefit of it. The bill also provides for increasing the salary of the judge of the court from $2,000 to $2,500, and the salary of the solicitor from $1,500 to $2,000 per annum, the solicitor's salary, to this extent, being contingent upon whether the fines and forfeitures reached this amount. There are some other minor amendments, one being as to stated time, spring and fall, for jury cases, &c.

I introduced in the Senate this morning two bills local to Anniston, one of which will be of general interest to the county. The bill of general interest to the county is one to provide for a better assessment and collection of the State and County taxes in the city of Anniston. It will pass both houses and will secure both to the State and County thousands of dollars which are now lost by reason of incomplete assessment of property there. As Jacksonville and Piedmont grow, similar bills for those towns would be a good thing for the people, and such bills for these places will be in order about next session, if they continue to grow as they are now doing. As it is important to get the above named bill through before recess, Mr. Cooper will doubtless introduce it in the House also tomorrow, so that we may take two chances on its speedy passage.

In order that we may be together as much as possible to consult over and agree upon local measures, Mr. Cooper and I have taken a room together at the corner of McDonough and Columbus streets, where our constituents may find one or either of us any time when the Legislature is not in session. We are very comfortably situated and find it better than to be at either of the leading hotels, where we spent the first week of the session. So far there has been no disagreement between us as to any matter touching county measures.

We have not yet fully discussed amendments to the county road law; but it is not likely that there will be any serious disagreement as to that. Both are anxious to give the county a good road law. I am inclined to issue 50 year 5 per cent. bonds to the extent of $100,000 to give the county commissioners a fund to do something substantial with at once. Such a bond can be easily sold at par or above par, and the interest may be met without increase of taxation out of the money now raised under the present law for road purposes. I do not know yet how Mr. Cooper stands upon this proposition. It may be that the general road law now being prepared will meet all difficulties. In that event we may agree to repeal our present local road law and take the risk with the balance of the counties in the State. If, however, we are to retain our present road law it is clear to my mind that we will have to have more money to make a fair and substantial start with. So far the road law has not had a fair trial for the lack of funds.

A bill is in for a Constitutional Convention to provide for local taxation for public schools, solution of the suffrage problem and other things which the present constitution stands in the way of. It seems to me with pretty general favor so far as expression goes, but I am free to say there has been no general expression on the subject.

The senatorial contest has, so far,

monopolized all attention, and there has been less discussion among members on general measures than is usual. As soon as that is out of the way the discussion will turn upon other subjects. Before this letter is printed it will doubtless be settled by the caucus. The first meeting of the caucus occurred last night. Eight ballots were taken as follows: 1st ballot—Seay, 32; Kolb, 42; Pugh, 42; Watts, 11; 2d ballot—Seay, 32; Kolb, 41; Pugh, 42; Watts, 12; 3d ballot—Seay, 29; Kolb, 42; Pugh, 45; Watts, 12; 4th ballot—Seay, 28; Kolb, 43; Pugh, 43; Watts, 12; 5th ballot—Seay, 30; Kolb, 38; Pugh, 48; Watts, 11; 6th ballot—Seay, 26; Kolb, 40; Pugh, 50; Watts, 11; 7th ballot—Seay, 30; Kolb, 40; Pugh, 48; Watts, 9; 8th ballot—Seay, 34; Kolb, 41; Pugh, 42; Watts, 10. At 11 o'clock the caucus adjourned until tonight, when the matter will be probably decided. The claim put forward by the friends of Mr. Kolb prior to the meeting of the Legislature that he would be nominated by the Alliance members, who are largely in the majority in the Legislature, does not seem to be panning out. Out of about seventy Alliance men in both houses only 43 have been rallied to his support, notwithstanding the most earnest whipping in by the men who are trying to play the role of leaders. They, as other members, are showing a manly independence of dictation outside the party that nominated them, and are disposed to act upon their own individual judgment as to what man among the aspirants will best subserve the interests of the State at Washington. On the contrary, where members have been instructed for particular men by the Democratic conventions which nominated them, they are loyally obeying instructions even when their individual preferences lie in other directions. This is honorable and right. No man should accept a nomination at the hands of a party if he is unwilling to obey the instructions which go along with that nomination. Neither Mr. Cooper nor I received any instructions on this head from the Democratic conventions which nominated us, and consequently both have been left free to cast our votes for U. S. Senator in that way in which we may think the State's best interests will be subserved. Both of us got a resolution of the County Alliance demanding a support of Mr. Kolb or some other man who would carry out the financial views of the Alliance, presumably those promulgated at St. Louis. Courtesy requires that each of us should respond to this in due time, so that this important body of our constituents may know whether we have carried into effect their orders on this head, and I shall take early opportunity to do so as soon as the senatorial contest has been settled. Meantime I will say, that, while the wishes of any considerable part of my constituents has always had and shall always have great weight with me, I do not recognize the right of any body of men organized for social, religious, business or political purposes outside the Democratic party (whose nominee I am), to give me instructions as to my vote in political matters, such as the election of U. S. Senator. This is evidently a political office, and the Democratic party alone in Alabama has the right to speak authoritatively to its nominees as to whom they shall or shall not vote for to fill it. By this expression I do not mean to be the least disrespectful to the gentlemen of the Alliance who have presented their instructions on this head, but I mean to employ plain terms so that there may be no misunderstanding as to the matter. In matters of local legislation, where the interests of the agricultural classes were at stake, I should naturally look to the Alliance membership for expression and should be inclined to follow any suggestion of the order in preference to suggestions from any other source as to the matter; but in matters political, as I have said, I own no master except the Democratic party. While I am in it and of it I owe it fidelity of service and loyal allegiance, and it alone, among all the associations of men. In speaking of my own attitude altogether in this regard, after speaking of Mr. Cooper in connection with the resolution of the Alliance, I do not want to be understood as meaning that he entertains the same or different views from mine on the subject. I do not feel at liberty to speak for him, and that is all. He will do that for himself at the proper time.

The senatorial contest may be decided to-night. It is the earnest wish of the General Assembly to get rid of it and I doubt the ability of aspirants to hold in their adherents to any prolonged contest. Among the members of the Legislature there does not appear to be any enthusiastic partizanship one way or the other, but a sober and earnest effort to do the best thing for the great State of Alabama as each sees for himself what that best thing is.

Gen. Forney was here yesterday, but went away this morning. He was here on private business and not to take a hand in the contest. The "old war horse" seemed to have confidence in the ability of the General Assembly to do the right thing by the State in the matter.

The Fair was an unparalleled success and demonstrates beyond doubt that Montgomery is the place for future State fairs. On Confederate soldier's day there were fully ten thousand people on the grounds. I went expressly to shake hands with Gen. Jubal A. Early who was there, and to meet my old Brigadier General Wilcox; but the latter did not come. On editor's day or rather day after I went to the Commercial club rooms in this city and met Col. McClure, the editor of the Philadelphia Times, one of the best friends the South has north of the line. I found him a most genial and companionable gentleman, very enthusiastic on the glorious future that awaits the South.

Montgomery, like, Atlanta, is enthusiastic over the nomination of Gen. Gordon to the United States Senate. The fact that the Alliance men of Georgia were too shrewd to allow themselves sold out to the great railroad corporations by McCune and other leaders affords particular gratification. It serves to show the farmers how much of a friend McCune is to them. After selling them out on the compound bill he comes to Georgia and actually commits the Alliance caucus to the attorney and a director of the West Point Terminal system of railroads, of which Jay Gould is a large owner, for United States Senator. But the rank and file of the order were no fools and could not stand this. They bolted to Gordon and elected him in a whirlwind of enthusiasm. So may they ever act and so may the plans of their treacherous leaders ever come to naught. The masses are honest. They are intelligent. They know what is right and in time they will know who and who are not their friends.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Application has been made to the Controller of the Currency to organize the First National Bank of Piedmont, which will succeed the Bank of Piedmont. The capital stock of the First National Bank will be $100,000.

Edwardsville News: An application will be made to the Governor of Alabama for a pardon of F. M. Burgess, who was convicted at the fall term of the circuit court, 1890, for manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year.

Edwardsville News: Mr. E. W. Haines, of this county who has been working at Rising Fawn Iron Mines had a very narrow escape from death by the premature explosion of a dynamite. He had his right hand very badly mangled and was considerably shaken up by the explosion.

At Florence: Two white men and two negroes were arraigned Monday before J. A. Cypher, a justice of the peace in Oakland beat, and tried on the charge of taking 1,700 pounds of seed cotton from the gin house of L. P. Cantrell on the night of the 4th inst. The parties were bound over in the sum of $300 each to await the action of the grand jury.

North Alabamian: A telegram from our young friend and townsmen, Tracy Abernathy who has been in New York under the surgical treatment of Dr. Wyeth, for the past six weeks, states the splints were removed from his arm Tuesday, but that the bones were just as when the splints were put on—no improvement.

Greenville Advocate: The Richmond Cedar Works are preparing to add a large cedar oil distillery to their factory at this place, and will employ an additional number of hands. The oil of the cedar is used to a great extent in the manufacture of soap and is quite valuable, and the large quantity of saw dust from the factory will be utilized in that manner.

Guntersville Dispatch: Joe Isdell had ginned 125 bales of cotton up to the 6th inst., at the McKee gin at Albertville. One bale ginned for J. M. Price weighed 565 pounds, having been made from 1322 pounds seed cotton. With four men Joe made a record of one bale per hour for four hours, a record by the way of which he is proud.

The construction of the Florence Cotton Mills goes on handsomely, with a large force of hands at work. The building is three stories, 365 feet long and 100 feet wide, is now up to the second story, and the engine and boiler rooms are finished excepting the roof. The immense establishment will require a 900 horse power engine to run the machinery.

The Geneva Record tells of a small man than the Baldwin county dwarf who exhibits himself at the State fair. It says: Major Alonso Weeks, assistant telegraph operator at this place, stands in his shoes just three feet and four inches high and weighs ninety-nine pounds. The major is manly, bright and a general favorite. He has just turned 21 years of age, is unmarried, but has an eye for the beautiful in muslin and red ribbons.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17, 1890.

There may be a turn in the Cleveland tide before 1892. Already the wave of enthusiasm, according to the hard rocks of common sense, and the political wiseacres are talking about alliances in which Mr. Cleveland does not figure. There are many prominent Democrats in Washington who discount very largely the demonstration at Columbus. It is not that they love Cleveland less as that they love success more, and the latter seems to be out of the question when the lukewarmness shown by Mr. Cleveland toward Tammany's ticket in the last election is remembered. It is the hard, practical, unsentimental politician who is leaving Cleveland out in the cold. They do not believe he can carry New York, a state which is most essential factor in the election of 1892. The politicians who are sure that Cleveland cannot win are equally certain that Hill can. It would not be strange if the approaching speakership contest proved a skirmish ground for the Cleveland-Hill fight. Already there is talk of an alliance whereby the Democratic strength of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, part of Pennsylvania, Maryland, part of Virginia and West Virginia will be thrown for a Western candidate for Speaker in exchange for Western votes for an Eastern candidate for the Presidency. To this alliance, which looks to the nomination of Hill, with Whitney or Smith W. Wood as second choice, Gov. Abbott, of New Jersey; ex-Lieut. Gov. Black, of Pennsylvania; Senator Barbour, of Virginia, with Senator Gorman of Maryland, are said to be favorable. It is an open secret that ex-Gov. Black of Pennsylvania, is at enmity with Gov. Pattison, and the former defeated and Pattison's election will widen the breach. Cleveland's efforts, securing, as they did, the nomination of Pattison and breaking up the combination made by ex-Senator Wallace and Gov. Black, offended the latter, but it cemented an alliance between Cleveland and Pattison. It is said that these Eastern candidates will throw their strength to forming an alliance with Southern Democrats, whereby the latter will secure votes of the Speaker candidate from their section if they will promise votes for Cleveland or Pattison at the next Democratic convention. It is, therefore, as viewed in Washington, a fight between Cleveland and Pattison as against Hill, Abbott and Black, as to which can form the most powerful alliance. The test will come, of course, in the vote of the Democratic caucus for Speaker, and upon this result is said to depend the name of the standard-bearer of the Democrats in the next Presidential election. Certainly no Speakership campaign of recent years ever opened with such important possibilities clustered around it.

The probability of the convening of the Fifty-second Congress in extra session next spring is regarded in some quarters almost as a certainty. Representative Springer said Saturday that he thought an extra session was quite possible. It was certain, he said, if the Republicans attempted to pass the election bill, as that effort would be steadfastly resisted. The amount of work to be accomplished in the short session soon to commence will be very large, consisting of many important bills side-tracked last session by the tariff and other measures. The apportionment bill is to be considered, and a fight will be precipitated if it is not made acceptable to the Democrats. The civil service investigation report has not yet been acted upon and will open the flood-gates of discussion. There will be a wrangle over the census, and an investigation of the alleged partisan manipulation of the census returns will be asked by the Democrats. A score of other matters could be suggested as tending to prolong the session, without mentioning the apportionment bills which must be passed. A great deal of friction is expected during the session. The Democrats will return here jubilant and less disposed than ever to submit to Mr. Reed's restraints, while the Speaker's humor will naturally be of that nature which will induce him to make it unpleasant for those who are impertinent or annoying on the floor. This condition of affairs is thought likely to create scenes more entertaining than edifying.

The prosperity of Washington is strikingly evidenced at the present time by the number and character of the buildings being erected in all quarters of it. Whatever street may be traveled and in whatever direction a course may be taken, proofs of building enterprise soon begin to appear. Costly and elegant residences and substantial dwellings are the order of the day. Our new lines of street railway give access to new territory, and, accordingly, the suburbs of the city are extending and rapidly filling up with handsome villas.

This spirit of enterprise is not lacking near its business center, as is shown by the colossal structures now in course of erection.

The Interstate Immigration Convention will meet at Asheville, N. C., Dec. 17. The movement is commanded by the Governor of the State. Several Southern Governors will participate. The place of meeting is one of the most attractive on the continent. The convention should be attended by every influential Southern man desirous of building up this section.

SENATOR GORDON.

The Old Soldier Got There

With a Whoop.

AND DID IT ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

THE WILDEST ENTHUSIASM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—Never in the history of Atlanta have there been enacted scenes like those of today. Gordon is Georgia's senator for the next six years, and that fact has turned Atlanta wild with delight. The most notable fight in modern Georgia history resulted in the election of Gordon by a clear majority of both houses of the legislature on the first ballot. The senate has been acknowledged for Gordon and but little excitement was manifested there. Norwood and Calhoun were his principal opponents.

In the house was the great struggle by the anti-Gordon men, who tried every way possible to prevent Gordon's election to-day, hoping another day might change the complexion of affairs. The vote in the house was taken amidst great excitement. The galleries and lobbies were packed with Gordon men and women, all Atlanta being for Gordon. Every Gordon vote was cheered and other names were hissed. When the roll call was completed it stood Gordon 83, opposed 55. Then there were several changes and Gordon was safely elected. The scenes were the wildest imaginable. Members who had changed to Gordon were mounted on the shoulders of others and carried about the house amid the wildest confusion and enthusiastic cheering. Speaker Howell, who had voted for Gordon, and the former for Hammonton, changed to Gordon, announced that he did so for harmony's sake and hoped the election would be made unanimous.

To-night Atlanta turned inside out to a great Gordon demonstration at the artesian well with Gordon, Governor Northern and other speakers. There are bonfires, fire works, artillery salutes, crowds marching the streets with brass bands and tin horn brigades and all yelling for Gordon. The total vote of the two houses was Gordon, 129; Norwood, 45; Calhoun, 25; Hines, 13; Hammond, 9; Hawkins, 1. Hammond and Hawkins were not candidates.

John B. Gordon will succeed Joseph E. Brown in the senate.

To-night Atlanta is wild with excitement, fire-works are being burned, brass bands are playing and speeches delivered. A special from Atlanta, Ga., says the vote in the house for United States senator showed that Gordon lacked one of a majority. Speaker Howell then cast his vote for General Gordon. A dramatic scene followed, men went wild, the crowd in the lobbies broke through doorways, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

John B. Gordon will succeed Joseph E. Brown in the senate.

NOVEMBER 22, 1890.

LETTER FROM MONTGOMERY.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 19, 1890.
DEAR REPUBLICAN:

Since I wrote you the Legislature has gotten down fairly to work and is doing a good deal of it, notwithstanding the attention the senatorial contest has excited.

In the legislation already proposed Calhoun county has had her fair share and will have more as the session progresses. Most of this, so far, has come from Anniston, but in a few days Piedmont, Jacksonville and other parts of the county will present bills for consideration. Anniston being the largest place in the county will necessarily ask for more local legislation than any other, and there is a disposition both with the Representative and Senator to give that progressive place all reasonable legislation asked for, as well as other points in the county, which are forging forward in the march of progress.

Mr. Cooper has already introduced several bills in the House, one of which will become a law tomorrow. Most of these are local to Anniston, but there is one affecting the whole county. It is an amendment of the present local option stock law. As the law now stands any beat in the county can hold an election whether the beat shall have a stock law or not. If the people vote for stock law, it means the keeping up of cows, horses, hogs, goats, &c. The amendment offered by Mr. Cooper to this law so fixes it that the people may vote for a partial stock law, if they choose, as well as a general stock law. For instance, they may have a stock law which only applies to hogs, sheep and goats, if they wish, which will save much in building fences. This is about as far in the direction of a stock law as our Representative cares to go, and it is hoped this compromise of the matter will meet the views of everybody interested.

There is another bill introduced by Mr. Cooper which, although local to Anniston, has a general county interest. He has stopped the bill in the committee for the present until the people may be informed as to some of its provisions through this letter. It will probably pass the House some time during next week, and any one objecting will have until then to make their objections known.

The bill is in the nature of certain amendments to the Anniston City Court bill. The bill makes the jurisdiction of the court extend throughout the county, instead of four beats as at present, and, this being the case, fixes the cost of the court on the county, instead of those four beats. This would be but right, provided the jurisdiction of the courts is extended, and the county gets the benefit of it. The bill also provides for increasing the salary of the judge of the court from $2,000 to $2,500, and the salary of the solicitor from $1,500 to $2,000 per annum, the solicitor's salary, to this extent, being contingent upon whether the fines and forfeitures reached this amount. There are some other minor amendments, one being as to stated time, spring and fall, for jury cases, &c.

I introduced in the Senate this morning two bills local to Anniston, one of which will be of general interest to the county. The bill of general interest to the county is one to provide for a better assessment and collection of the State and County taxes in the city of Anniston. It will pass both houses and will secure both to the State and County thousands of dollars which are now lost by reason of incomplete assessment of property there. As Jacksonville and Piedmont grow, similar bills for those towns would be a good thing for the people, and such bills for these places will be in order about next session, if they continue to grow as they are now doing. As it is important to get the above named bill through before recess, Mr. Cooper will doubtless introduce it in the House also tomorrow, so that we may take two chances on its speedy passage.

In order that we may be together as much as possible to consult over and agree upon local measures, Mr. Cooper and I have taken a room together at the corner of McDonough and Columbus streets, where our constituents may find one or either of us any time when the Legislature is not in session. We are very comfortably situated and find it better than to be at either of the leading hotels, where we spent the first week of the session. So far there has been no disagreement between us as to any matter touching county measures.

We have not yet fully discussed amendments to the county road law; but it is not likely that there will be any serious disagreement as to that. Both are anxious to give the county a good road law. I am inclined to issue 30 year 5 per cent. bonds to the extent of $100,000 to give the county commissioners fund to do something substantial with at once. Such a bond can be easily sold at par or above par, and the interest may be met without increase of taxation out of the money now raised under the present law for road purposes. I do not know yet how Mr. Cooper stands upon this proposition. It may be that the general road law now being prepared will meet all difficulties. In that event we may agree to repeal our present local road law and take pot luck with the balance of the counties in the State. If, however, we are to retain our present road law it is clear to my mind that we will have to have more money to make a fair and substantial start with. So far the road law has not had a fair trial for the lack of funds.

A bill is in for a Constitutional Convention to provide for local taxation for public schools, a solution of the suffrage problem and other things which the present constitution stands in the way of. It seems to meet with pretty general favor so far as expression goes, but I am free to say there has been no general expression on the subject.

The senatorial contest has, so far, monopolized all attention, and there has been less discussion among members on general measures than is usual. As soon as that is out of the way the discussion will turn upon other subjects. Before this letter is printed it will doubtless be settled by the caucus. The first meeting of the caucus occurred last night. Eight ballots were taken as follows: 1st ballot—Seay, 32; Kolb, 42; Pugh, 42; Watts, 11. 2d ballot—Seay, 32; Kolb, 41; Pugh, 42; Watts, 12. 3d ballot—Seay, 29; Kolb, 42; Pugh, 45; Watts, 12. 4th ballot—Seay, 28; Kolb, 43; Pugh, 43; Watts, 12. 5th ballot—Seay, 30; Kolb, 38; Pugh, 45; Watts, 11. Sixth ballot—Seay, 26; Kolb, 40; Pugh, 50; Watts, 11. 7th ballot—Seay, 30; Kolb, 40; Pugh, 48; Watts, 9. 8th ballot—Seay, 34; Kolb, 41; Pugh, 42; Watts, 10. At 11 o'clock the caucus adjourned until tonight, when the matter will be probably decided. The claim put forward by the friends of Mr. Kolb prior to the meeting of the Legislature that he would be nominated by the Alliance members, who are largely in the majority in the Legislature, does not seem to be panning out. Out of about seventy Alliancemen in both houses only 43 have been rallied to his support, notwithstanding the most earnest whipping in by the men who are trying to play the role of leaders. They, as other members, are showing a manly independence of dictation outside the party that nominated them, and are disposed to act upon their own individual judgment as to what man among the aspirants will best subserve the interests of the State at Washington. On the contrary, where members have been instructed for particular men by the Democratic conventions which nominated them, they are loyally obeying instructions even when their individual preferences lie in other directions. This is honorable and right. No man should accept a nomination at the hands of a party if he is unwilling to obey the instructions which go along with that nomination. Neither Mr. Cooper nor I received any instructions on this head from the Democratic conventions which nominated us, and consequently both have been left free to cast our votes for U. S. Senator in that way in which we may think the State's best interests will be subserved. Both of us got a resolution of the County Alliance demanding a support of Mr. Kolb or some other man who would carry out the financial views of the Alliance, presumably those promulgated at St. Louis. Courtesy requires that each of us should respond to this in due time, so that this important body of our constituents may know whether we have carried into effect their orders on this head, and I shall take early opportunity to do so as soon as the senatorial contest has been settled. Meantime I will say, that while the wishes of any considerable part of my constituents has always had and shall always have great weight with me, I do not recognize the right of any body of men organized for social, religious, business or political purposes, outside the Democratic party (whose nominee I am), to give me instructions as to my vote in political matters, such as the election of U. S. Senator. This is eminently a political office, and the Democratic party alone in Alabama has the right to speak authoritatively to its nominees as to whom they shall or shall not vote for to fill it. By this expression I do not mean to be the least disrespectful to the gentlemen of the Alliance who have presented their instructions on this head, but I mean to employ plain terms so that there may be no misunderstanding as to the matter. In matters of local legislation, where the interests of the agricultural classes were at stake, I should naturally look to the Alliance membership for expression and should be inclined to follow any suggestion of the order in preference to suggestions from any other source as to the matter; but in matters political, as I have said, I own no master except the Democratic party. While I am in it and of it I owe it fidelity of service and loyal allegiance, and it alone, among all the associations of men. In speaking of my own attitude altogether in this regard, after speaking of Mr. Cooper in connection with the resolution of the Alliance, I do not want to be understood as meaning that he entertains the same or different views from mine on the subject. I do not feel at liberty to speak for him, and that is all. He will do that for him at the proper time.

The senatorial contest may be decided to-night. It is the earnest wish of the General Assembly to get rid of it and I doubt the ability of aspirants to hold in their adherents to any prolonged contest. Among the members of the Legislature there does not appear to be any enthusiastic partisanship on way or the other, but a sober and earnest effort to do the best thing for the great State of Alabama as each sees for himself what that best thing is.

Gen. Forney was here yesterday, but went away this morning. He was here on private business and not to take a hand in the contest. The "old war horse" seemed to have confidence in the ability of the General Assembly to do the right thing by the State in the matter.

The Fair was an unparalleled success and demonstrates beyond doubt that Montgomery is the place for future State fairs. On Confederate soldier's day there were fully ten thousand people on the grounds. I went out expressly to shake hands with Gen. Jubal A. Early who was there, and to meet my old Brigadier General Wilcox; but the latter did not come. On editor's day or rather day after I went to the Commercial club rooms in this city and met Col. McClure, the editor of the Philadelphia Times, one of the best friends the South has north of the line. I found him a most genial and companionable gentleman, very enthusiastic on the glorious future that awaits the South.

Montgomery, like Atlanta, is enthusiastic over the nomination of Gen. Gordon to the United States Senate. The fact that the Alliancemen of Georgia were too swayed to allow themselves sold out to the great railroad corporations by McCune and other leaders affords particular gratification. It serves to show the farmers how much of a friend McCune is to them. After selling them out on the compound land bill he comes to Georgia and actually commits the Alliance caucus to the attorney and a director of the West Point Terminal system of railroads, of which Jay Gould is a large owner, for United States Senator. But the rank and file of the order were no fools and could not stand this. They bolted to Gordon and elected him in a whirlwind of enthusiasm. So may they ever act and so may the plans of their treacherous leaders ever come to naught. The masses are honest. They are intelligent. They know what is right and in time they will know who and who are not their friends.

Maj. A. W. Cummings, of the Piedmont Inquirer, was in town Tuesday night looking for a "typo." The Major looks remarkably well, and is a living walking evidence that he is accustomed to three square meals a day.

Francis Avenue begins to assume a business and church like appearance. A removal back of one house, and the erection of several brick business houses, together with one or more residences and the Catholic church building, will add additional prestige to the city.

Dr. E. A. Cook, of Cherokee, has been visiting in Jacksonville this week, and wanting to keep well up with the rapid progress our town is making toward a large city, didn't forget how to do this and wisely added his name to the subscription list of the REPUBLICAN.

The entertainment to be given by Mrs. Ladie Bowling will come off sometime soon, we could not learn the date fixed, but, as Mrs. Bowling never does anything by halves, we can assure all who are so fortunate as to attend to get the full worth of their money.

That little fellow, Curtis Walker, business manager of the Jacksonville hotel, caters to the wants of guests in a happy and pleasant way. Under the guidance of Mrs. J. E. Walker, this hotel is meeting with favor and custom, local and transient. Cheap rates and good fare are indispensable to patronage, and these two combines are to be had at this house.

Mr. Jacobs, of the Anniston Auction House, having acquired a fortune in the short space of one week pulled up stakes Wednesday evening and fell "back" in good order to his old quarters 12 miles south of Jacksonville. Mr. Jacobs is a clever, straight man, and it is quite probable that he will yet make Jacksonville his future abiding place.

A "flying dutchman" Sunday flew through the streets of our town mounted on a high-metalled steel, and had not horse and rider encountered a freight train on the railroad, doubtless the dutchman would still be flying in the direction "Ward's ducks" went several years ago. Monday the intrepid and fearless equestrian appeared before the Mayor, who fined him $1 and costs, with the admonition that Sunday in the month of November is not a good day for horse racing.

Marriage of Mr. W. W. Driskill. The Chattanooga Times of the 10th contains the announcement of the nuptials between Mr. W. W. Driskill, formerly of this place, but now of Chattanooga, and Mrs. Turney. In accord with the Times the REPUBLICAN extends hearty congratulations to the newly wedded couple. It is but fair to premise that this new firm will make Jacksonville their future home. So mote it be. The Times says:

The marriage of Mr. W. W. Driskill to Mrs. Turney, the proprietress of the fashionable boarding house at Georgia Avenue and McCallie street, was a pretty ceremony, performed by S. W. B. Moore yesterday morning. The residence of the bride, the interior of the house was profusely decorated with flowers, and a large, beautiful marriage bell, under which the words which made them man and wife were spoken, hung suspended in the large sitting room. The bride wore a beautiful costume of gray French bridal cloth, with dark velvet and steel passementerie trimmings, while the groom was attired in conventional black. The bride's bouquet was very costly, and presents were showered on the happy pair. After the ceremony they departed by the fast Tennessee Virginia & Georgia Road to visit Mr. Driskill's relations and friends in Alabama for a week, after which they will be at home to their many friends at No. 720 Georgia Avenue.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Our Mayor is determined that Jacksonville shall be ably represented at the Southern Interstates Immigration Convention by the following able appointment:

Council Chambers, Nov. 10, 1890.

S. D. G. Brothers, Esq., Dear Sir—You are hereby appointed a delegate to represent Jacksonville in the Southern Interstates Immigration Convention to be held in Asheville, N. C., December 17, 1890.

Respectfully, H. L. Stevenson, Mayor.

The marshal has called attention to riding and driving on the sidewalks. This is what Judge Mitchell, of New York, says:

"Sidewalks are for the people, and not for the accommodation of business houses and truckmen," says Chief Justice Mitchell, of New York.

The city having brought suit against a grocer to recover the penalty for having backed trucks upon the sidewalk, the defense was an ordinance of the Common Council making it lawful for any vehicle to be backed on the sidewalk. Justice Mitchell declared the ordinance void. He said: "The Legislature can give a right in a highway for a public use, but any legislative enactment giving a private person an apparent right to a public highway is unconstitutional. The use of a street or sidewalk belongs to the people and cannot be diverted from them." Continuing, he declared that the misuse of the sidewalks of the city was an evil which was increasing. It is an abuse, he said, which should be stopped, and the police department should be instructed to arrest all persons caught driving a vehicle on the sidewalk or obstructing the passage-way so that passers-by were compelled to walk out into the street.

LADIES—Needing a tonic, or some who want building up, should take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

It is a powerful, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaint.

Catarrh.

Catarrh is a most disgusting ailment and yet many unnecessarily suffer with the disease. They will try local application, which do no good whatever, but fail to try such constitutional treatment as is afforded by a use of B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm,) which removes the mucus poison in the blood and thus eradicates the cause of the disease.

N. C. Edwards, Lampasas Springs, Texas, writes: "I was greatly annoyed by catarrh, which impaired my general health. The discharge from my nose was very offensive, and I used various advertised remedies without benefit until finally the use of B. B. B. entirely cured me. I am proud to recommend a blood remedy with such powerful curative virtue."

B. C. Kinard & Son, Towaliga, Ga., writes: "We induced a neighbor to try B. B. B. for catarrh, which he thought incurable as it had resisted all treatment. It delighted him and continuing its use he was cured sound and well."

Recommends S. S. as a Spring Tonic.

I take pleasure in recommending Swift's Specific (S. S.) as a Blood Purifier, and general tonic. It has no equal for toning up the system, purifying the blood, and bracing up the flagging energies in the spring. Three bottles of this wonderful medicine made a new man of me.

JOHN L. HUFF, Girard, Ill.

Serofla Cured.

Mr. S. I. Brooks, of Monticello, Ga., writes: "When the best physicians failed to cure a case of Serofla of two years' standing, a few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S.) did the work. Therefore I do not hesitate to pronounce S. S. the best blood purifier in the land. I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering from impure blood."

Well Said. The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, pays a well-merited compliment to the Tredegar Inn. Among our many pleasant experiences there was the comfortable fare at the Tredegar Inn. Our meals were the best we had during the whole trip." Under the management of Mr. I. W. Gasser, this hotel has not only become a popular resort, but has gained an enviable reputation with the outside world. It is the best conducted first-class hotel in or out of Alabama.

Mrs. Neison, the agent of Pratt Mines, was here Thursday. He was here to escort the delegates, appointed by Judge Box, to the convention which will meet about 7 o'clock Friday morning at the mine. Following is a list of the distinguished delegates:

Roxie Johnson, colored, murder in second degree; 2nd year in the penitentiary.

Anderson McComb, colored, assault with attempt to rape; 20 years in the penitentiary.

Stinson Sutherland, colored, grand larceny; 1 year in mines.

Sid Lester, colored, selling liquor without license, 2 cases, fined $50 in each. Failed to respond, sent to coal mines.

Rufus Hall, colored, obtaining goods under false pretense, hard labor for mines for 18 months.

Chas. Cummings, white, 2 cases, grand larceny and carrying concealed weapons; 1 year in mines and fined $50.

Plushes and velvets have advanced 25 per cent recently, but Mrs. Kate Jelks always acts wise in buying at the right time. You still get them at the old prices there.

Mrs. Kate Jelks is all the time looking out for new style goods and as soon as they are out Jacksonville gets them.

Ladies, if you wish nice Stationery I would be pleased to show you my line. No trouble to show goods.

J. W. BOWSER.

The drummers will tell you that Mrs. Kate Jelks buys the best Millinery of any house in the county and sells them for the least money.

Jas. W. Bowser assures us that he will have at his book store, westside square, a beautiful line of Holiday Goods and will sell them at very low prices.

Small Farm For Sale.

We will sell a small farm of 30 acres, 6 acres cleared, balance woodland, near the Skelton mineral spring, 4 miles south of Jacksonville, on the Jacksonville & Anniston public road, for $20 per acre.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Talladega wants a telephone exchange and, included in the system, a connection with Birmingham and Tredgar.

Ashville Augs: The largest sweet potato yet was brought to this office by Mr. J. B. Reynolds. It weighed two pounds and was raised in the flatwoods.

Fall City Echo: The stock is all subscribed for a National Bank at this place, and will be opened as soon as the Howard & Maxwell block is completed, which will be about the middle of December.

A special from Sylacauga says: Whiskey or no whiskey is the important question with us just at present. We already have it four miles from town, as fiery as the panting soul could wish; but the question is, shall we bring it to town?

Moulton Advertiser: Bro. Greenshaw has made several trips to town this fall with his apple wagon, and readily disposed of them at $1 per bushel. He could sell 1000 bushels at the same price, and here is a pointer for the progressive farmer.

Troy Messenger: Mr. Steve Rushing has been trying to get ahead of his neighbor, Charley Spradley, on the cane question. He sent us a stalk having twenty-three natural joints, and seven feet eight inches long.

A special from Lafayette says: The petition for prohibition within five miles of our college, has been signed by one hundred and twenty-two citizens of this place. It has already been forwarded to our Representatives at Montgomery. Every member of the Board of Trustees signed it as did every teacher in the faculty.

Madison County takes the blue ribbon at the Montgomery Southern Exposition, the first premium of $500 having been awarded her agricultural exhibits, and first premium to Mr. George T. Motz, of this county, on his individual exhibit. This makes near $4,500 in first premiums took by this county at the Birmingham State Fair and at the Southern Exposition.

At Talladega the city council has been agitated over the constitutional question of taxation. They want the city to get the benefit now in the assessment of the $650,000 the property of the town increased in value the past year over the preceding year, but are met with Justice Clopton's opinion of the supreme court on the Birmingham case, which paralyzes them, as it were.

A special from Fairview says: J. Calvin McCain, who was shot by Robert E. Scales, who shot J. Calvin McCain, the deputy sheriff of St. Clair county, was captured in Guntersville, Ala., where he called on a doctor to dress some slight wound he received in the fight in which McCain was killed. Mr. McCain was a bright young man and a good citizen. The county mourns his loss.

La Grippe Again.

La Grippe, says the doctors has reappeared in Western Europe and in the United States, but in less virulent form than last year's epidemic assumed. On Tuesday last the schools were closed in Wurttemburg, Germany, on account of the influenza prevailing in the city. The New York Herald of last Thursday says that in connection with the return of la grippe, "the Health Department of New York last week recorded a decided increase of mortality from pneumonia. The average number of deaths for the first week of November in past years has not exceeded seventy-four, but this year it is ninety. This fact is a warning to all classes of people to take precautions against undue exposure to the elements against overwork and against whatever tends to debilitate the system."

Farm for Sale.

We will sell on reasonable terms a good farm lying five miles from Jacksonville and four hundred yards from a depot, containing 160 acres of land. About 90 acres under fence and in cultivation. About 40 acres almost perfectly level. Has new six room frame house finished complete. Fine spring near the house and mineral springs adjacent. The farm is well watered and very suitable for a stock farm. Has also a good orchard—large new barns conveniently arranged and a good three room tenant house. Besides being good farming land, the place is supposed to have beds of rich mineral ores. Churches and schools in three-quarters of a mile. Very few farms in the county possess more advantages or better located. Apply to

BALTIMORE AND THE SOUTH.

Solid Foundations Upon Which the South's Prosperity Rests.

Manufacturer Record, Nov. 22.

A luncheon was given at the Hotel Remond recently, to bring together an assemblage of representative Baltimore men, for the purpose of discussing Southern interests from a Baltimore standpoint, and to promote business intercourse and friendly relations.

It was attended by about 150 prominent business and professional men of this city. Addresses were made by ex-Secretary of State Walker, of West Virginia, and R. H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers' Record. We have been requested by many of those present to reproduce this admirable paper in a later issue. Mr. Edmonds' address is given here:

"A nation born in a day was scarcely more admirable than the creation of what is destined to be the greatest industrial empire of the world, which is now in progress before us. The immense territory which stretches from Mason and Dixon's line on the north to the Rio Grande on the south will inevitably be the richest part of America. It possesses a combination of advantages that cannot be found elsewhere in the world. In fact, there are combined the chief advantages and resources of nearly all other countries, without their most serious disadvantages. The late Hon. William D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, familiarly known as 'Pig-iron' Kelley, devoted many years to a careful study of the South, and shortly before his death wrote: 'The New South is the coming El Dorado of American adventure. The States south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi, with their half million square miles of area, contain a wealth great enough for a continent—a wealth so vast, so varied in its elements and character, so advantageously placed for development, that these States alone can sustain a population far greater than the population of the United States today. Their products would be so different from those of other portions of the country as to afford the most profitable exchange, advantageous to all.'

Instead of having to transport its ore, 1,000 miles, as many northern furnaces do, and its coke 600 to 900 miles, as many furnaces are compelled to do, it has its ore, coal and limestone within a few miles of its furnace.

It can manufacture iron and ship it to Pennsylvania markets and still sell it at a profit for less than the actual cost of production to many furnaces in that State.

But so rapidly is the demand for iron increasing that the productive capacity of Pennsylvania's furnaces, as well as of all the new furnaces which the South can build, will be taxed to keep pace with it.

Based on these facts the South can continue its present marvelous activity without any danger of overdoing the business.

Wherever activity prevails there will be some speculative excitement, and in the building up of an industrial empire some may lose through unwise investments in unsound enterprises, but this should not prejudice the public against the healthy progress of the South.

Town-building has become a science. We no longer look for the struggling cross-roads village to gradually grow into a town and the town into a city.

Men of keen business instincts select a site for a new town just as a financier may select a place for the establishment of a new bank.

The town-site may be a wheat-field or a forest today, while a year hence it may be a thriving place with several thousand inhabitants, with all the advantages of schools, churches, electric lights, water works, etc.

* * * * *

From Shenandoah Junction in West Virginia, where the Baltimore & Ohio crosses the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, to Birmingham, Ala., there will be five or ten years hence a dozen industrial towns for every one that now exists. The wonderful record made by the West in the building up of Denver, Omaha, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City and other places is to be far more than duplicated in this great mineral district of the South, the richest in the world. The increase in the population of the United States during the next ten years will be about 18,000,000 or 20,000,000, or as much as the population of the entire South from Maryland to Texas at present. Instead of going to the far West as heretofore, the drift of population is now Southward.

* * * * *

Birmingham first demonstrated that Alabama could produce pig iron and ship it to Pennsylvania and sell it at a profit at a lower price than the actual cost of production to many Pennsylvania furnaces. Birmingham blazed the pathway of industrial development of that section, whether it be in the building of railroads, the starting of new towns or the establishment of iron works, will not only return a large profit to enrich this city, but it will help to make Birmingham the great financial and commercial center of the whole South."

THE BILL SNORT LETTERS

Col. Snort Gives An Inside View of How the News Was Received.

At the White House.

National Democrat.

WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C., NOV. 14, 1890.

To Major Dan McGary, Houston, Texas.

MY DEAR MAJOR.—We have not got over yet. I am afraid we never shall. We White House inmates are sick. We are an entire hospital, with a morgue and cemetery in the back yard, and an undertaker's establishment on the front door. Harrison did not take it as easy as he took that cottage by the sea. To have so much turkey in sight, and then have to eat crow, is tough.

One thing you may be sure of, that is that Harrison, and all of his relatives will keep right on drawing nourishment from the public teat, just as if nothing had occurred.

I reckon you have lived on a Texas ranch, and had occasion to try and make a big calf, that had got into the pen with the old cow, quit sucking by twisting the calf's tail.

You can twist, and twist, and twist,

until your arms ache, and that blessed calf will keep on sucking, just as if its tail was made of gutta percha.

'Well, the tribe of Benjamin have got their heads, and necks into the public crib, and they look very much of being as sensitive to averse criticism as is the Texas calf

when it is busy taking nourishment from the maternal fount.

Yours for reform,

BILL SNORT.

ALABAMA NEWS

Monroe and Bud Rogers, of Cul- man county, made nine bales of cotton and 200 bushels of corn this year with one ox.

The reports to the Presbyterian Synod of Alabama, which recently met in Troy, shows that the church is in a more prosperous condition than at any time since the war.

The Sheffield hotel is now roofed in and will soon be ready for occupancy. The cost will exceed $120,000, besides the foundation and lots. Those are valued at $35,000.

A Bolivar county, Miss., planter sold on last week in Greenville, 150 bales of long staple cotton at 16 cents per pound. The cotton was purchased for print works in Alsace.

Greensboro Watchman: Tom Walker, colored, in jail at this place, convicted of murder in the first degree, will not be hung on December 12th, the day set for his execution by Judge Moore. The case has been appealed to the Supreme Court.

At Florencia Capt. Field, recruiting officer United States army, has opened a recruiting station in this city. He has already received several recruits with a good prospect of obtaining more. The recruits will be taken to Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga.

A meeting will be held at the University of Alabama December 22d, for the purpose of organizing the civil and mining engineers, mine and furnace owners, and managers, chemists, metallurgists, geologists, and all others interested in the material progress of the State, into a society for the promotion of the scientific examination and discussion of practical, every day affairs.

Huntsville special: The directors of the Dallas Cotton Manufacturing Company have elected Godfrey M. Foggs of Nashville, president; William Rison, vice-president; T. B. Dallas, treasurer and general manager. A bleachery will also be established to finish goods for the southern and western markets. The first mill is to cost $50,000, and will have 23,000 spindles and 500 looms.

A special from Mobile says: It is reported that the grand jury here is considering the charge brought by Carter & Co., of Mobile against A. H. Daves & Co., of Eleanor, Ala., of raising weights on eighty-eight bales of cotton shipped by Daves & Co. to Carter & Co. The increase is about twenty pounds per bale. The cotton is said to have purchased of J. and T. Dumas of Arlington, Wilcox county, and it is claimed that the weights were afterwards raised. The parties are under arrest at Selma.

Greenville Advocate: Meas. Houston & Co., of Garland, sent to our office this week a pure white cat squirrel that was killed by Abe Bullock, colored, near Garland, Saturday. There was not a blemish on it, and the hair was soft and white as cotton. We have heard of this species of cat squirrel being killed in this country, but it is seldom that they are ever seen, and it is doubtful if there are a dozen men in the country that ever beheld one.

Evergreen Star: Jeff Henderson, colored, accidentally shot and killed himself Friday afternoon. He went squirrel hunting in the morning and found dead in the woods about a mile west of Evergreen the next day. His empty gun was lying at his feet, and a dead squirrel in some brush near the breech of it. He had evidently discharged the gun while trying to extricate the squirrel with the butt.

"Don't hang to my skirts and cry so," said mamma, to her peevish and pale looking little girl. Ah! mother, if you would give it Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyer it would soon feel well, and contentedly play with its blocks and toys.

central portion of the Southern States, east of the Mississippi river, is, so far as the variety and abundance of its natural wealth is concerned, by far the most remarkable portion of North America, if not of the world.

Roughly speaking, it is 700 miles long by 150 miles wide.

It can be truthfully said that this region contains fifteen times as much coal, accessible to economical mining as can be found in any contiguous field of like area in the world, and that it contains forty times as much coal as the coal fields of England had in them before a pick had been struck in the ground.

This coal field area is heavily timbered with virgin forests of the largest growth and most valuable kinds of our North American woods.

This region is now acknowledged by all experts to be the richest iron ore district in the world.

In addition to its vast wealth of coal and iron, it possesses the supreme advantages of having these materials in closer proximity and more easily mined than elsewhere.

Instead of having to transport its ore, 1,000 miles, as many northern furnaces do, and its coke 600 to 900 miles, as many furnaces are compelled to do, it has its ore, coal and limestone within a few miles of its furnaces.

It can manufacture iron and ship it to Pennsylvania markets and still sell it at a profit for less than the actual cost of production to many furnaces in that State.

But so rapidly is the demand for iron increasing that the productive capacity of Pennsylvania's furnaces, as well as of all the new furnaces which the South can build, will be taxed to keep pace with it.

Based on these facts the South can continue its present marvelous activity without any danger of overdoing the business.

Wherever activity prevails there will be some speculative excitement, and in the building up of an industrial empire some may lose through unwise investments in unsound enterprises, but this should not prejudice the public against the healthy progress of the South.

Town-building has become a science. We no longer look for the struggling cross-roads village to gradually grow into a town and the town into a city.

Another cottage is to be built on Iola Street. Mayor Stevenson has let the contract therefor to Rutherford & Son.

Fine Millinery, Ladies' and Misses Hats, Birds, and Wings, real cheap from now on until Christmas at Ullman Brothers, Anniston.

Fine Dress Silks, Woolen Dress Goods, Velvets, Plushes, Trimmings and Passementries at greatly reduced prices at Ullman Brothers, Anniston.

Be sure and go out to the College on the night of December 8th, and see Jonah; also hear a lesson from the old blue book spelling book of fifty years ago.

The real estate market is firm but quiet. Some sales are made daily. There is no great rush, but there is no such thing as a "flattening in market."

And still they come. Who? Those who, like the "Queen of Sheba" cry, "the half hath not been told," of the wonderful resources of Jacksonville.

Men, Boys, and Children Suits, Over Coats, Dress Pants, Dress and Woolen Shirts, Fine Shoes, Hats and Gloves at reduced prices from now on until Christmas at Ullman Brothers, Anniston.

The contract is let for extending Francis Avenue to Main Street. It pursues its course from its devouement into Spring street, on down to College, thence up and on east to Main at the Frank corner.

Tapestry, Brussels and Ingrain Carpets, Matting, Crumpled Cloth, Floor Oil Cloth, Lace Curtains, Portiers and Window Shades at prices which defy competition, at Ullman Brothers, Anniston.

Butterly is the man. A large and capacious steam bakery is the next additional enterprise to be added to Tredegar. There is a world of ginerbread meaning in the above fixed fact. The thousands coming must be fed:

The dirt for the cellar and foundation of the company's commissary building on Francis Avenue is being rapidly thrown out, and it is safe to premise that a comely and unique business brick will soon be erected thereon.

The three neat and commodious cottages being erected for Drs. J. D. and J. R. Arnold, in the "Arnold Addition," are fast nearing completion, and are already rented by some of the numerous home-seekers thronging our streets.

Capt. C. W. Brewton died at his residence in Jacksonville last Sunday morning at 3 o'clock, and was buried Monday by the Masons. Capt. Brewton was a citizen of this place for a number of years. He leaves a wife, and one child and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

One gentleman, a house owner, states that he has been applied to for his house by at least twenty different parties. This shows that there is money in building neat and comfortable houses. One hundred tenements would be taken within two weeks' time.

Ullman Brothers of Anniston offer special inducements from now on until Christmas, in addition they will pay any express charges if you send them an order, and will also return you your fare both ways if you trade $10 with them. So don't miss the chance in getting goods at reduced prices.

Team! team! We are informed that Messrs. Martin & Wilkerson have ordered from Tennessee a large number of draught mules for their street and other hauling. All farmers or other team owners who come in for work are promptly employed. A hundred teams could find work at good wages and prompt pay.

It is a fact that a very considerable number of tenement cottages can be rented at fair rates now, and hereafter, is beyond cavil. "Why this influx of renters?" The great demand of the various industries here being inaugurated for hands brings hands by the scores. They, to economize time, must live near their work--thus the needs. No better paying property can be found than cheap and comfortable houses for the hundreds now crowding in.

52, and all told, middle-aged and young folks, male and female, representing all the trades, professions and religious sects, took in the Opera House at Anniston Thursday night, to hear Patti Rosa, the intrepid and charming songstress of the western world.

Thursday our merchants and business men generally closed their doors from ten in the morning until three in the afternoon. Services were held at the Presbyterian church, and a goodly number of saints and sinners were the recipients of wholesome truths enunciated by the Rev. J. H. Patton, the pastor.

Many Persons are broken down overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures maladies. Get the genuine.

Mr. Joe Ellis, the contractor of the Catholic Church, now being erected on Francis Avenue, is fast nearing completion. The architecture is excellent, and when finished will be quite an edifice and addition that thoroughfare. Mr. E. is a skilled mechanic, and his work bears close inspection.

Great Reduction in Ladies' Wraps.

As pulpit orator and platform speaker, he has but few equals in the bounds of the Southern Baptist Convention.

"Return thanks for the innumerable blessings bestowed on them by the Supreme Ruler, and that they remember by kindly deeds the poor and afflicted." This is the language employed in Gov. Seay's proclamation to the people of Alabama to observe the 27th of November as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. The REPUBLICAN abstained from unusual labor, but the "head and front" of the concern was absent; hence there were no collaterals on hand. But, be it said to his credit, one warm-hearted Christian soul reached out the giving and loving hand, and generously donated one dozen large and luscious oranges, grown in Florida groves. His name is B. H. Denman. That's right, Bro. D. The Lord will bless those who "cast their bread upon the waters."

The brick plant is a decided success and grinds out daily 25,000 brick. One kiln will be fired in a day or so, and then another and another. The brick will be of the best quality.

This enterprise and its hustling and gritty owners deserve special mention, and have already elicited the commendation of the public. It is proposed to double the capacity of this plant, turning out 50,000 brick per day. Even this additional 25,000 brick will not lessen the demand.

It is every day demonstrated that our moneyed men have started out with the fixed determination to build a city of no mean pretensions, and they will do it. It is not speculation, but to build business blocks and tenement houses, the latter just now in unprecedent demand. The tide has set in and a second Noah's flood cannot impede its onward march.

It was too good to be lost. But the best of good things ever and anon take wings and are often "caught on the fly" by greedy and prowling coromorants. A great big old-time Alabama waiter, 4 by three feet, was filled and piled to its utmost capacity about 11 o'clock sharp Thursday morning, with turkey, sliced gobbler, chicken pie, stewed chicken, roasted duck, cake in endless variety and flavor, and whole heaps of other goodies, all destined for this office and intended, of course, as a slight appreciation of the inmates hereof. But, alas! That waiter and its contents never reached its proposed haven of rest. The narrow-gauge tramway strikers met the incandescent and sable descendant of Elihu's shores, bearer of the edibles, and despoiled him of his luggage. This is the first highway robbery occurring on Francis Avenue, and it is the prayer of the consignees that the strikers may never strike at our hash again or bother our bread-basket any more.

If Removes Pimples and Blotches.

I take pleasure in recommending Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) as a Blood Purifier. A few bottles cured me of a blood trouble after all other remedies had failed. It also removed pimples and blotches from my face, leaving the skin clear and smooth. While taking S. S. S. my appetite increased and my general health improved. Its effects as a tonic are unequalled.

Montgomery Advertiser.

The County Democratic Executive Committee had a special session yesterday afternoon for the purpose of trying Mr. E. P. Johnson, of Beat 18 against whom charges of disloyalty to the party had been brought.

On the strength of uncontradicted proof that Mr. Johnson had both voted and worked for S. A. Pitney, the Independent candidate for Congress in this district, he was by a unanimous vote expelled from the committee.

It being understood that charges of disloyalty would be preferred against Mr. John Fraser, also a member of the committee from Beat 14, Mr. Fraser had prepared an answer to the same which he submitted to the committee through Mr. E. P. Johnson. On the admission of Mr. Fraser in his answer to charges which had not been preferred, that he both voted and worked for S. A. Pitney, the Independent candidate for Congress, he was forthwith expelled from the committee by a unanimous vote.

The committee then went into an election to fill the vacancies caused by expelling Messrs. Johnson and Fraser, and elected Mr. L. J. Smiley from Beat 13, and Mr. J. J. Weldon, from 14.

Wall Street and the Louisiana Lottery.

Montgomery News.

The News, in order to suppress gambling and prevent the utter brutalization of negroes, especially, and the thorough corruption of all classes of whites, and the giving of something for nothing by the poor who turned over their little hard-earned gains, for no consideration, to the enormously rich of New Orleans—the News proposed to invest the Postmaster General with dangerous priviledges and powers.

We feared his unworthiness, but confessed it even better to tolerate Mr. Wanamaker's vanity and eagerness to make money, rob postal clerks and pry into people's secrets and business than suffer the New Orleans lottery to continue its depredations upon the people, and especially upon the poor and illiterate.

But listen to another story of the same sort and see how different the conduct of the government when dealing with the gamblers of New Orleans and with those of Wall street. One Cabinet officer, the evidently godly Wanamaker, stops the mails and captures the money and prevents remittances and virtually throttles the bank of the New Orleans banditti, while another unctuous Uriah Heep asserts his goodness and godliness in saving the victims of Gould and Vanderbilt and Wall street itself from utter annihilation.

The New Orleans gambling hell is sought to be destroyed and all the forces of government are devoted to this purpose. At the very same moment, Windom, an ex-gambler from Wall street, reverses the policy of Wanamaker and absolutely taxes the people many millions in order to prevent the bankruptcy of these rapacious and lawless Wall street gamblers and plunderers of the country.

Windom seems to think that it is the duty of the toiling multitudes of the United States to exempt these crazed gamblers from necessary results of their own folly or madness. Windom buys United States bonds at enormous prices that gold may flow, as another Pactolus, down Wall street. The gamblers grasp and are maddened and Gaud taking advantage of terror caused by Baring's Bros.' distress, is alleged to have bought the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Richmond and Danville and Canadian Pacific Railway systems. He becomes, at once, the master of forty thousand miles of railway lines, and as the News was saying, some days ago, is more powerful than the President of the United States or Czar of Russia.

Windom with all the forces at his command and all the wealth of the government, sustains and upholds the monstrous gambling hells of New York; while Wanamaker uses every agency of force or violence at his command to destroy the comparatively innocent and harmless gamblers of New Orleans.

People sent from $1 to $50 a month each to the New Orleans lottery; while the same classes of moralists and speculators send thousands into the slums of Wall street. It never comes back. When Windom pays $25 to $27 premiums for $100 bonds, the people are the losers and bondholders are enormously enriched. Windom transports Federal gold from San Francisco, and from all the mints and custom houses and heaps it up in Wall street, that money, however scarce elsewhere, may abound in the great American "den of thieves."

Wanamaker, in the exercise of his functions as a guardian of people's purses, reverses the policy of Windom and will suffer not a dollar to flow South into New Orleans. Windom wants it all for the chance dealers and gamblers, and confidence men of Wall street.

In what is Wall street better or worse than the New Orleans Lottery? Why should the people be taxed to sustain and enrich the one and put under restraint to prevent their contributions to the other?

Fifty millions within a brief period have been emptied out of the treasury and out of the pockets of the people who paid it to Custom Houses into Wall Street, and popular losses on bonds and interest account have been enormous. Windom is eager to empty the treasury into Wall Street, and yet when farmers and alliances have asked only that the volume of the currency be increased and that this currency be loaned to them in mortgaged farm, Windom and the great lords of Wall Street and of the Republican party have despised the thought.

We can't help saying that agricultural and laboring populations would be asinine, beyond all conception, if they supported a party which, having created two widely separated classes, the very rich and the very poor, now illustrates its tendencies and predilections and governing forces by turning over the people's money in the Federal treasury to the distressed gamblers of Wall street, with no benefactions are done overtly to farmers and toilers of the country. The Government in fact, as administered by Republican leaders, is only a resistless machine for the robbery of the masses and the aggrandizement of the classes.

General Debility.

One by one the great general genials of the day have passed away, but there is one general who is ever with us—General Debility is name. He is no respecter of persons or of age or sex. He imposes on the young, and in an unfair fight with old age, comes off victor. He is constantly battling against good health, and his delight is to make mankind miserable. His weapons are a lame back, and at aching side, weak kidneys, inactive liver, poor digestion, non-assimilation of food, extreme nervousness, universal lassitude, short breath, unnatural fatigue, etc. However, he is not to be feared. He is easily disarmed by a use of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla. When this remedy is used to counteract the attacks of General Debility, he is made to retreat every time. In fact, General Debility and Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla cannot be in the same system at the same time. Try it, and you will soon get strong.

Gould and Wanamaker.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The story that Jay Gould was attempting to ruin Wanamaker, because of his advocacy of the postal telegraph scheme, is revived with an addenda. It is currently believed that that the "Little Wizard" had much to do with the recent financial troubles in New York, but is not solely responsible. It is claimed that the Louisiana Lottery Company sought to punish Wanamaker, who had recently been a heavy borrower in the money market, owing to the depreciation in his Reading stock, because of his effort to suppress the Lottery Company, and withdrew its enormous reserve of $7,000,000 from the banks, and so caused the great flurry in the money market. It is believed that Jay Gould and the Lottery Company pooled their issues and worked the scheme together. Wanamaker has as yet shown no signs of distress, although it is well known that he has lost money.

The Deaf Hear.

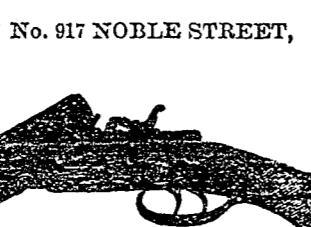

That sounds miraculous, and yet one may become temporarily deaf on account of blood poison settling in the ear, and then find quick relief by using B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm.)

John W. Weeks, Decatur, Ga., writes: "Six months ago I had a pain in my ear and in a few days it discharged matter. Then I grew deaf and could not hear at all. I began the use of B. B. and the running of my ear soon ceased and I now hear, while my health is much improved and I feel full of gratitude to God and to the proprietors of so good a remedy."

S. M. Ellis, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "B. B. cured me of most stubborn eczema. I had doctor'd it without success for twelve years."

W. H. Davis, San Marcos, Texas, writes: "I am rapidly recovering from blood poison by use of B. B."

FINAL SETTLEMENT.
STATE OF ALABAMA,
CALHOUN COUNTY,
Probate Court, Special term Oct 21st 1890.

This day came A. McColister, agent for the heirs at law of the estate of Jacob F. Dailey deceased, and filed in Court his account and vouchers for a final settlement of the administration of J. F. Dailey, who at the time of his death was administrator of estate of Chas. Damblon, deceased.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the 17th day of November 1890 be and is hereby appointed the day upon which to audit and pass upon said account and make said settlement; and that notice thereof be given for three successive days in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear before me, at my office in the Court House of said county, on said 17th day of November 1890 and contest said settlement if they think proper.

neys, inactive liver, poor digestion, non-assimilation of food, extreme nervousness, universal lassitude, short breath, unnatural fatigue, etc.

However, he is not to be feared. He is easily disarmed by a use of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla. When this remedy is used to counteract the attacks of General Debility, he is made to retreat every time. In fact, General Debility and Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla cannot be in the same system at the same time. Try it, and you will soon get strong.

Gould and Wanamaker.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The story that Jay Gould was attempting to ruin Wanamaker, because of his advocacy of the postal telegraph scheme, is revived with an addenda. It is currently believed that that the "Little Wizard" had much to do with the recent financial troubles in New York, but is not solely responsible. It is claimed that the Louisiana Lottery Company sought to punish Wanamaker, who had recently been a heavy borrower in the money market, owing to the depreciation in his Reading stock, because of his effort to suppress the Lottery Company, and withdrew its enormous reserve of $7,000,000 from the banks, and so caused the great flurry in the money market. It is believed that Jay Gould and the Lottery Company pooled their issues and worked the scheme together. Wanamaker has as yet shown no signs of distress, although it is well known that he has lost money.

The Deaf Hear.

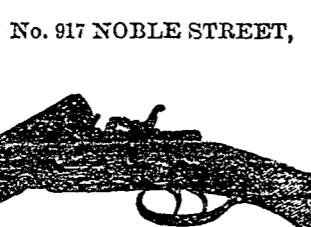

That sounds miraculous, and yet one may become temporarily deaf on account of blood poison settling in the ear, and then find quick relief by using B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm.)

John W. Weeks, Decatur, Ga., writes: "Six months ago I had a pain in my ear and in a few days it discharged matter. Then I grew deaf and could not hear at all. I began the use of B. B. and the running of my ear soon ceased and I now hear, while my health is much improved and I feel full of gratitude to God and to the proprietors of so good a remedy."

S. M. Ellis, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "B. B. cured me of most stubborn eczema. I had doctor'd it without success for twelve years."

W. H. Davis, San Marcos, Texas, writes: "I am rapidly recovering from blood poison by use of B. B."

FINAL SETTLEMENT.
STATE OF ALABAMA,
CALHOUN COUNTY,
Probate Court, Special term Oct 21st 1890.

This day came A. McColister, agent for the heirs at law of the estate of Jacob F. Dailey deceased, and filed in Court his account and vouchers for a final settlement of the administration of J. F. Dailey, who at the time of his death was administrator of estate of Chas. Damblon, deceased.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the 17th day of November 1890 be and is hereby appointed the day upon which to audit and pass upon said account and make said settlement; and that notice thereof be given for three successive days in the Jacksonsville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear before me, at my office in the Court House of said county, on said 17th day of November 1890 and contest said settlement if they think proper.

Farm for Sale.

We will sell on reasonable terms a good farm lying five miles from Jacksonville, and four hundred yards from a depot, containing 160 acres of land. About 90 acres under fence and in cultivation. About 40 acres almost perfectly level. Has new six room frame house finished complete. Fine spring near the house and mineral springs adjacent. The farm is well watered and very suitable for a stock farm. Has also a good orchard—large new barn conveniently arranged and a good three room tenant-house. Besides being good farming land, the place is supposed to have beds of rich mineral ores. Churches and schools in three-quarters of a mile. Very few farms in the county possess more advantages or better located. Apply to
